Situation Serious, Army Chief Says

Where's Hermann?

Not very often does a picture like this come out of Berlin, for rarely have so many leading members of Germany's Nazi party been photographed together. The occasion was a meeting of party leaders in Berlin . . . attended by (l. to r. Chancellor Hitler, Propaganda Minister Goebbels, Reichsminister Rudolf Hess, State Leader Gorlitzer, Reichsleiter Dr. Ley and Reichsminister Dr. Lammers. Air Marshall Goering is the only Nazi leader of note who is not in the picture.

BIG U. S. AIR ARMY SENT TO FAR EAST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, was reported to have told the Senate Military Affairs committee today the United States intends to reinforce the Pacific fleet immediately with an utnspecified number of the latest type of Army and Navy fighting planes.

Declining to reveal, even in the secret session of the committee, the number of planes to be dispatched for this purpose, Gen. Marshall was said to have described the situation in the Pacific as "serious."

Reports from Shanghai today said transports loaded with Japanese troops were on the way from Formosa and Japan to Hainan Island, off Indo-China, a stepping stone in any projected attack on the British naval base at Singapore—Editor's note.

Some committee members said Marshall refused comment on Administration policy in relation to the Far Eastern situation but assured them there was no intention on the part of Army and Navy chiefs to "strip" American defenses in the effort to speed up war equipment deliveries to Britain.

Troops, said by Army officials to total "more than 500," arrived

Unified Eire Seeks Arms From Britain As Price of Aid

By J. REAGAN McCRARY
(Copyright, 1941, by International News Service)

DUBLIN, Feb. 20—Careful inquiry in responsible quarters in Eire demonstrates beyond a doubt:

First—That Eire is emphatically unified behind President Eamon De Valera in his stand for neutrality.

Second—That De Valera's neutrality is absolutely balanced, and Third—That the one thing Ireland requires to remain "neutral on Britain's side" is arms.

These three truisms form the foundation and keystone of Ireland's stand in the present war.

Any report that De Valera has been shaken in his firm stand of absolute neutrality is false. This goes for any report that may have arisen in America since the return of Wendall Willkie from his flying trip to Dublin.

QUESTION OF NEUTRALITY

As for the first truism—that of Eire's whole-hearted support of De Valera's neutrality stand—I can say this:

More than any other leader in Irish history, more than ever before during his own career, De Valera enjoys the unity of Eire. On his own neutrality policy, he has support that is far deeper and broader than the support President Roosevelt has for his own foreign policy. Like Roosevelt's foreign policy, De Valera's neutrality policy has effectively undermined the opposition ranks in domestic matters.

In the matter of balanced neutrality may I point out that:

Almost symbolically, there are 12 RAF and 12 Nazi airmen interned in Ireland—one for one.

With the exception of a small group of pseudo-intellectuals, there is no pro-Nazi feeling in Eire. Among some extremist elements—which have been vigorously suppressed by De Valera—there is a pro-German feeling that is rooted in and fed by hate for Britain.

But, as one old Irish Republican Army man put it:

"Suppose you were a mouse cornered by a cat and a dog came along, wouldn't you be a little pro-dog?

By governing this axiom, here is a sentence I heard repeated again and again:

"The first to invade us will be the enemy."

DE VALERA'S AIMS

And now for the crux of the situation: What does De Valera want from Britain that will make Eire neutral on Britain's side.

High and low in Eire, the people will remind you that the Irishmen will fight to the death against any invader. And they will remind you

CHECKING NAZI HARBOR DEFENSES—The German censor didn't reveal the location of this action, but he did say that this harbor in Germany is well protected with nets, mines and the great wooden boom on which the men are working. The boom, composed of huge logs fastened together with wire cable, is anchored across the harbor mouth, leaving only a narrow space for the passage of surface craft.

REYNOLDS BOLTS F. D. TO FIGHT AID BILL AS SURE TO PUT U. S. IN WAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Sen. Reynolds (D.) of North Carolina, announced today he was opposed to the Administration's British aid bill because he was convinced its enactment might lead the United States directly toward a declaration of war.

Beginning the fourth day of debate on the measure in the Senate, Reynolds described it as "a bill for the defense of the British empire at the expense of the lives of American men and at the expense of the American taxpayer."

His opposition came as a surprise to many Senators because Reynolds had voted with the Administration majority to report the measure from the foreign relations committee for Senate consideration. He had consistently refused previously, however, to say whether he would support the bill.

FOR PRESENT AID ONLY

"I want to state," Reynolds told his colleagues, "that I am not opposed to giving aid to England as is provided under existing statutes.

"However, I am bitterly opposed to any subterfuge or the circumventing of the present statutes by any type of legislation such as this, which we are now being called to vote upon.

"There is no man in this body that abhors war or hates war more than I do, and I intend to do everything in my power to keep our country from becoming involved in this war.

"I am opposed to this bill, H. R. 1776, because I am convinced its passage may lead us directly toward, and to, a declaration of war."

Reynolds termed "ridiculous" a statement by Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential nominee, before the Foreign Relations Committee. Under questioning by Reynolds, Willkie told the committee that if Britain fell "tomorrow" this country would be in the war within 30 to 60 days.

CALLS WILLKIE ALARMIST

Questioned further, Willkie said that if Hitler captured the British navy he would attack the United States "in a relatively short time."

Reynolds said Willkie was an "alarmist," and he also added:

"In the eyes of every military man, he made the ridiculous statement that if we aid Great Britain

Hillman Opposed to New Law on Defense Strikes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Sidney Hillman, associate chief of defense production told the House judiciary committee today that "strikes are the rare exception in defense industry" and no additional legislation was necessary to deal with them.

He praised labor and mangement for the job they were doing together "to avoid interruption of production," and said they should be encouraged "in their use of the democratic conference table technique."

The committee, which is divided over the need of remedial legislation to cope with defense production stoppages, called Hillman for testimony after hearing from his colleague, William S. Knudsen, director of the office of production management.

Knudsen informed the committee yesterday that labor disputes had not caused any important delays. He recommended no legislative action under the circumstances.

Hillman, in a formal statement, said labor relations in defense industries had a "remarkable record" for the past seven months.

PNEUMONIA IN GREECE

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Word has been received here that pneumonia is prevalent in Greece. The Duchess of Kent, the former Princess Marina of Greece, accepted today on behalf of that nation 1,000,000 anti-pneumonia tablets from drug manufacturers.

250 Insults an Hour Sent Hitler--Collect

Deluged by the flood of insulting messages to Hitler and the Nazis—Collect—RCA communications today enlarged its staff of radio operators in New York and tripled its telephone staff to handle the increased business.

At the same time RCA reported messages were being sent at the rate of 250 an hour to Germany, with the operators still far behind the rising tide.

This would be an average cost of between $13,000 and $19,000 a day to the Nazis for the collect thrusts.

And today the witticism boys had discovered a way to raise the ante for Hitler. Instead of filing messages at the $2.19 minimum night rate, they found they could file on a deferred day rate which would cost the Third Reich $3.23 for 25 words, hot or cold.

SPY PLOT SEEN

A "good proportion" of the messages received have been rejected because of the law against transmission of obscene or profane matter, J. B. Rostron, RCA traffic manager, said today. And the "larger proportion" of the messages sent showed "distinct animosity" toward those who footed the bill. A few were of a complimentary nature.

Meanwhile Maurice Stember, New York State American Legion adjutant, came up with the voiced suspicion that the message flood may be part of a plot for German spies to communicate with the Nazis in Berlin without attracting undue attention.

Stember said he understood that ordinarily non-routine messages to Germany are subjected to State Department scrutiny, but in the persent case messages can go in the general scramble without exciting suspicion.

From all over the nation the messages to Hitler were being sent, with the senders attempting to devise new insulting suggestions. However, one for an authentic broadcast of Hitler's funeral remained the most popular.

HUB JIBES CENSORED

In Boston, RCA employes on Federal st. reported a rushing business, but said a large percentage of the messages for Hitler were being censored here and not sent on to New York offices.

Local offices began to feel the effects of the tell-it-to-Hitler movement late yesterday before closing time and when the offices reopened today officials were prepared for an even greater rush.

The Federal Communications Commission, which has jurisdiction over radio, hasn't turned a hand about it.

NO PROTEST FILED

"The commission has authority to institute an inquiry of its own volition," a FCC spokesman said, "but it is customary for the commission to act only upon filing of a formal protest or request for an inquiry.

"No one has made any such protest or request. Anyway, so far there seems to be no occasion for any such inquiry. This opens up no new channel for exchange of communications. Anyone who wanted to send a code message could do it as well by regular channels. Anyway, some people seem to be getting some fun out of this. We're not kill-joys."

BANDIT VISITED HER TWICE

A bold, lone gunman who entered a Dudley st. laundry, forced Clerk Frances Congdon of Dorchester (here) into a back room, and then rifled the cash register of $7, was being hunted today by local police. Miss Congdon told police that, after leaving the store, the bandit returned to threaten her with death when he saw her emerge from the rear room.

'Spendthrift' Heir Insured His Cat, Dog

BROCKTON, Feb. 20—His allowance was only $5 a week, but Henry F. Waitt of Wayne, Me., heir to the cigar fortune, insured his cat and his dog and it cost him $5 for each, according to a letter read today in probate court.

This letter, from Waitt to his lawyer, as well as two dozen others between various parties but concerning the hair, were read during hearing of his petition for removal of two guardians and expunging of a spendthrift clause in two $300,000 trust funds.

Yesterday the 39-year-old heir and chicken farmer fell down on a simple arithmetic problem given him while he was testifying, but today he was given a figure to read and he came through with flying colors. The figure was 23,925,784,178—and he called it billions, millions, thousands and hundreds, as he should have.

Some of the letters read were from Waitt to his counsel, George S. Harvey, while others were from Harvey to Waitt and between the lawyer and Waitt's father, Albert, who died last fall.

In one letter Waitt told his lawyer that he needed $500 to carry him along with the firm.

"I want to show you I can make good," the letter said. "I already have a cow and a pig to start with."

As a result of this letter the father wrote the lawyer and said he was "willing to gamble" $250 if the younger Waitt's mother would put up the other $350.

But in a subsequent letter, the younger Waitt told his lawyer he received only $25 from the mother and that was exhausted and they were "getting pretty hungry."

This letter stated that soon they would have to give up the farm and return to Boston and go on relief.

"When one's stomach is empty," said the letter, "one has to think of a lot of things."

In other letters Waitt declared he had stopped drinking and had not had a drink in three months; also that he was agent for an apple tree company, which job he took "to show that I am not afraid of hard work."

One letter commented that if he did not try his lawyer's patience and everyone else's, he "would not be a chip of the old block."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt, the Smithsonian Institution let it be known today, "is assured of a permanent place in the records of science."

The institution has named an octopus after him.

Octopus Roosevelti, the Smithsonian disclosed, is a hitherto unknown species of the great mollusk family. It was found by sailors during Mr. Roosevelt's trip to the Galapagos Islands in 1938, but apparently there was some delay in classifying and naming it.

BABY IN BATH KILLED BY RADIO WIRE SHOCK

FRAMINGHAM, Feb. 20—When his little wet hand came in contact with the wire of a radio set while he was having his morning bath Richard O'Brien, 10 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. O'Brien of Maple st., Framingham Center, was shocked to death today.

Mrs. Esther O'Brien, 31, whose husband is a teacher in the Lincoln Junior High School, was bathing the baby in the kitchen sink. She left him to answer the telephone. She heard a thud and ran to the kitchen. The baby had rolled face forward into its bath.

Police and firemen worked with an inhalator but without result, discovering no water in the lungs, but they noticed a burn on the baby's left hand. They said the child had touched a wire on a portable radio standing near by.

Associate Medical Examiner J. Harry McCann pronounced death due to accidental electric shock.

Victim in $38 Holdup Chases Two Bandits

In a street, yard and back fence steeplechase early today, George W. Darling, 34, of Harvard at., Cambridge, lost a race with one of the two bandits who attacked and robbed him.

Darling had just alighted from a bus at Trowbridge st. and Massachusetts ave., near his home, and the bus was moving away when the bandits, both huskies, darted from the shadow of a building.

They knocked Darling down, took his wallet containing $38 and his draft registration card and then fled.

Leaping to his feet, Darling took after the nearest of the bandit pair—one who was only about 5 feet 11 inches and about 190 pounds.

Along Trowbridge st. bandit and victim pounded, through a yard and into Harvard st., through another yard and over a fence into Ellery st., a detour again to Massachusetts ave., along the avenue until the bandit ducked between houses — and there Darling lost him.

He reported the robbery then to police.

Of Mice and Man —and Sleuth Has a Lead Pipe Cinch

When Joseph Smedley, who owns an unoccupied house in Clark st., Cambridge, found five radiators, three gas stoves, and many plumbing fixtures missing from the house, he didn't think it was the work of mice.

When he went into the house one day, he testified in East Cambridge Court today, and found Ralph Kane, 53, of Main st., Cambridge, walking out of one of the rooms with some lead piping in his hands, he just knew it wasn't mice.

Kane was found guilty of breaking and entering and larceny and was sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction.

Gun Crashes Pole, Soldier Is Injured

SANDWICH, Feb. 20—Pvt. James H. Agnew, 20, member of Battery F 68th Anti-Aircraft Regiment from Camp Edwards, was reported recovering today after a 37-millimeter anti-aircraft gun crash against a telephone pole.

The accident, which occurred on Route 130 during a convoy maneuver, delayed traffic and disrupted telephone and electric service for nearly two hours.

NEWTON M. D. SURRENDERS IN GIRL CASE

Sought for questioning since Monday, Dr. William E. R. Basch, 48, of Newton, surrendered to Brighton police today to answer charges that he had performed an illegal operation on a 22-year-old Malden girl.

Dr. Basch, reserve officer and former American Legion post commander, made his surrender to Sergt. Joseph Maguire and Special Officers George Doherty and Michael Cullinane, who have been investigating the case.

Lieut. Hugh Brady ordered the physician to police headquarters for fingerprinting and photographing. Dr. Basch was accompanied by Atty. Herbert F. Callahan, his counsel.

A warrant was obtained against the doctor after Miss Violet Leonard of Linehurst rd., Malden, had been found, seriously ill, in the home of Mrs. Ina M. Plude of Blue Hills pkwy., Milton. The girl was transferred to Milton Hospital.

Mrs. Plude and George J. Wagner, 20, of Seaview ave., Malden were arrested and held as accessories. They are now on bail awaiting a hearing March 4.

Dr. Basch's home is in Waverly ave., Newton Centre. He has offices in Harvard ave., Allston.

Scientists See Vitamins As Shell Shock Defense

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 20 (AP)—Two University of Pittsburgh scientists reported today that vitamin-deficient animals are "knocked cold" by noise and suggested that vitamins might provide a defense against shell shock in human beings.

While experimenting with hundreds of albino rats, Dr. H. W. Karn and R. A. Patton found that some of the rats barely blinked an eye when a loud buzzer was sounded, but others "suffered convulsive seizures and rolled over unconscious."

They said the shockproof rats were given food containing much vitamin B-1, whereas the rats knocked senseless were fed a diet only moderately deficient in that nutrient.

The scientists, who will continue their investigation to determine whether soldiers who "crack up" under artillery fire and dive-bombing can be partially protected from shock by special foods, commented:

"If the results with experimental animals have even a reasonably close bearing upon human physiology, it is clear that a new approach has been provided for the study of performance under severe conditions of noise exposure in industry and in military service of such types as tank corps, aviation, artillery fire and sustained bomb attacks."

Scientists have long recognized vitamin-deficiency as a factor in poor nervous stability. Karn and Patton said their findings were "striking in that the deficiencies are not evident in terms of general behavior or appearance."

"Our experiments show, however, that mental upsets may be prompted by a vitamin deficiency so slight that it could easily be overlooked in planning food for combat troops," they said.

Holdup Suspect Nabbed on Spot

Within four minutes of the robbery of $6.45 from a girl clerk of the North Shore Cleansers & Dyers Co. branch in Dorchester ave., Dorchester, today, police had a 31-year-old man custody.

The robber, according to authorities, walked into the store with his right hand in his pocket, as though pointing a gun, and demanded "all the money" from Miss Edna Michener, 23, of Dorchester.

Terrified, she handed over the cash, but screamed as the man left the store. A neighbor telephoned police and as the alarm was broadcast, police in a Division 11 cruiser car raced to the scene to collar the suspect.

Authorities said the prisoner's description tallied with that of a man who had held up the Hand Laundry in Dudley st., Roxbury, yesterday, getting $7.

PARENTS SWINDLED BY UNFIT OPERATORS OF SCHOOLS FOR RETARDED, SOLON SAYS

Hundreds of parents in Greater Boston, possibly thousands throughout the state, are paying money for the education of mentally retarded children to "schools" thoroughly unqualified for the task, Rep. Leslie B. Cutler of Needham charged today.

"Many of those who conduct these so-called schools for the dull child are persons who have neither the training nor the temperament for their work," she asserted.

"I know of one particularly gross abuse of anxious parents' trust. A 'school,' not far from the city where the retarded youngsters are allowed to sit around all day, doing absolutely nothing. And sizable fees are being charged for this."

LICENSING BILL

Rep. Cutler, one of the six women in the Legislature, believes that a proper state department should have the licensing and supervision of all such establishments which set themselves forth as schools to aid the mentally retarded child.

She has filed a bill to provide this licensing and supervision by the Department of Mental Health, and her measure is due for hearing by the committee on public welfare this week.

Mrs. Cutler's proposal follows on the heels of her bill to license boarding houses for children over two years and under 14, the latter measure now before this same committee.

SHOCKING CONDITIONS

"Laws in this state have been altogether too lax in the past," Mrs. Cutler declared. "It is time that steps be taken to remedy the sorry conditions that have prevailed.

"It is only when cases such as those the Child Guardianship Division found in the 'baby farms' are brought to public attention that we become concerned.

"Such conditions are shockingly prevalent and if the State Welfare Department were allowed more workers in the field we might realize it more vividly."

Mrs. Cutler favors giving more assistance to Miss Helen T. McCann, investigator for the Child Guardianship Division.

"Miss McCann does outstanding work and her own record is an envious one," the representative said, "but no one person can do the work of an entire state."

STORM-TOSSED SECOND TROOPSHIP DOCKS HERE

More than 32 hours overdue, the second contingent of the 2400 crack troops of the First Division, U. S. Army, returning from maneuvers in the tropics, landed at the Army Base in South Boston today.

The first group of tanned but shivering soldiers arrived in Boston yesterday aboard the U. S. Army transport Hunter Liggett; the men today arrived aboard the ice-encrusted Chateau Thierry.

On hand to watch the arrival were Maj.-Gen. James A. Woodruff, commander of the First Corps Area; officers of his staff; and a special guest — Maj.-Gen. F. G. Beaumont-Nesbitt, British military attache at Washington.

13-GUN SALUTE

Gen. Beaumont-Nesbitt arrived in Boston last night, stayed at the Ritz-Carlton, called on Gen. Woodruff this morning—and was received by a 13-gun salute—left for Fort Devens immediately after talking with reporters. He will appear at the British War Relief ball at the Copley-Plaza.

"Smooth as silk," was his comment on the disembarkation of the 950-odd men from the Chateau Thierry into a 125-truck convoy.

The soldiers included First Engineers Batallion, 16th Infantry Third Batallion, First Division Medical Detachment, 16th Infantry; a platoon of the 68th Coast Artillery, Anti-Aircraft; Battery A of the 99th Field Artillery.

The 99th will return to Edgewood Arsenal, Md., and the 68th will go to Camp Edwards; all other troops went to Fort Devens.

M. P.'S DIRECT TRAFFIC

Maj. Percy W. Thompson was in charge of the convoy; and Capt. Merrill D. Wish in charge of the hand-picked military police.

Many a Boston motorist was astonished to find a sharp-thinking MP, trained by New York city police in fast handling of traffic, blasting a whistle from a traffic box generally occupied by a Boston policeman.

The MP's took over control of downtown Boston traffic to get that 125-truck convoy through the city quickly.

Aboard the Chateau Thierry was Lieut. Mabel Brooke, 24 years old, reserve Army nurse on active duty, sole woman on the five-week trip of the boat.

"It was a marvelous trip," she said. "I never knew men so well as being with so many of them. They were all nice. We went swimming at Flamingo Beach. There was no serious sickness. Some of the men got sea urchin and cactus spines in them and a lot were seasick, but there was nothing bad."

ROUGH TRIP

Commanding officer of the troops was Maj. Ray Cavanee. Skipper of the ship was Capt. E. J. Powers.

Both told of a quiet trip down, but a terribly rough trip back—reason for the lateness of arrival.

"We hit a full gale one day out of San Juan," Maj. Cavanee said. "We fought it all the way up the coast. Once we rolled in a 27-degree arc. The propeller was out of water most of the time. One day we made only 161 miles in 24 hours. The engineer told me he threw a box overboard in the morning, and he looked out at noon and it was still there."

"But the soldiers made good sailors," said Miss Brooke—pardon, Lieut. Brooke.

Maj. Edward A. Gans, formerly on the staff of Gen. Fox Conner, was official observer on the trip, representing Gen. Donald C. Cubbison.

PLEASED WITH MANEUVERS

"We are all well satisfied with the maneuvers," observers said. "We went through them on the Island of Culebra with the Navy and Marines. Of course, we had expected to go to Martinique, but we didn't.

"The Higgins landing boats were fine, they ride very high and are fast. The Higgins boats, however, are made of plastic wood and a number showed signs of hard wear.

Deal So Smelly Carload of Oats Goes Begging

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 20 (AP)—A carload of oats was, figuratively, pushed around in grain circles here today because nobody appeared to want it under the circumstances.

As the story goes, Robert E. Dunn, grain salesman, sold the oats to the Searle Elevator Co., but when it was delivered out waddled a skunk. What's more, two dead skunks were found inside.

Searle's representative protested. The deal smelled, he said, demanding a discount. A skunk, re contended, certainly comes under the ruling against foreign material in grain.

Dunn refused to approve the claim.

"Produce the live skunk as evidence," he said in effect, "and we'll talk discount. No skunk, no discount."

To settle the row Chicago officials were wired to rule who, under the odoriferous circumstances, owns the grain. Back came the helpful answer:

"The skunks, undoubtedly."

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 20 (AP)—Mrs. George Trine, taking a series of allergy tests at Northwestern University clinic, noticed the bulging muscles of a fellow sufferer.

"You," she said, "have the muscles of a baseball player."

Conversation disclosed the man was a semi-pro player and, when Mrs. Trine politely inquired what he was allergic to, he responded:

"Canary feathers."

Spread of Strike To Boston Looms

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 20 (INS)—Spread of the CIO strike against the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. in Milwaukee to six other plants of the company, including factories at Boston and Oxnard, Cal., was seen as a possibility today.

The Milwaukee strike, called Jan. 21 by the CIO United Auto Workers' Union, has held up production on national defense orders totalling between $26,000,000 and $40,000,000 and kept more than 9000 workers idle.

DIVORCEE CHARGES FRITZ WIEDEMANN HEADS NAZI SPY RING IN U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20 (AP)—A divorcee who asserted Capt. Fritz Wiedemann owed her money for investigating his status with Adolf Hitler, described the Nazi consul-general in a law suit today as head of the German espionage system in America.

The complaint, filed in superior court by Mrs. Alice Crockett, an attractive brunette, sought $8000 from Wiedemann, Hitler's former personal adjutant, in payment for an alleged visit to Germany.

Mrs. Crockett, a Swiss native who said she once played in moving pictures under the name of Alice Gulden, asserted she went to Germany at the request of Wiedemann who wanted her to find out if he still was a Hitler favorite.

"It's all bunk," said Otto A. Hoecker, the attorney whom Wiedemann said would do his talking for him. Hoecker referred to the complaint which made the following charges:

Under a verbal agreement with Wiedemann, Mrs. Crockett left San Francisco June 9, 1939. She returned the following December after having spent $5000 of her own funds, which she wanted returned, along with payment of an agreed salary of $500 a month for the six months she was gone.

Mrs. Crockett told interviewers she met first with Goebbels and then later she met Hitler and Goering during a private party at a Berlin hotel. She said she saw Hitler five or six times, in all.

Hoecker said Wiedemann's version of his relations with Mrs. Crockett shapes up in the following manner:

SENT HER $100

She came to the consulate in the spring of 1939 and professed interest in the Nazi philosophy and wanted to work for Germany in this country. But Wiedemann told her he had no place for her.

In the spring of 1940 Mrs. Crockett wrote from New York that she was ill and needed money. Wiedemann charitably sent her $100. In November she asked for a $500 loan, which Wiedemann refused.

"The upshot of it was this suit," Hoecker said, "and the business about propaganda and espionage was obviously inserted to prejudice the case."

$85,301,029 SAVED FOR INSURANCE BUYERS

Liberty Mutual has saved and returned $85,301,029 to its policyholders, $9,026,285 in 1940 alone.

These savings, in the form of yearly cash dividends, resulted from the Company's plan of cooperating with policyholders in the prevention of losses and the elimination of unnecessary expense.

Dividends to Massachusetts policyholders alone have totaled $27,491,326 since organization of this Company in Boston in 1912. Of this amount $9,326,224 has been saved for car owners since the Compulsory Automobile Insurance Act became effective in 1927.

The public, too, in this Commonwealth and throughout the country, has benefited through the work which Liberty Mutual's Loss Prevention engineers have done to prevent accidents, suffering and death—in factories and stores, on great construction jobs and on the highway. For example, one Massachusetts manufacturing concern, employing 3,156 workers, has operated 8,472,248 "man-hours" without a single "lost time" accident.

Liberty Mutual is the largest mutual casualty insurance company and the largest writer of workmen's compensation insurance in America, protecting 30,000 business concerns employing 2,000,000 workers. The Company also insures more than 200,000 individual car and home owners.

Liberty Mutual writes workmen's compensation insurance, fidelity and forgery bonds, all forms of automobile and public liability insurance, also burglary, theft, elevator and plate glass insurance. Expert information on all these coverages is available without obligation to responsible business concerns and individuals in all of the Company's 93 offices including the Home Office at 175 Berkeley Street, Boston.

DEDHAM HIGH STUDENTS END STRIKE

All was well today at Dedham High School, with yesterday's 400 striking pupils returning to classes after parental talks and with the school committee declaring that no disciplinary action will be taken.

Except for the normal absentee list, the high school was functioning normally and the strikers, having had some midwinter skating during chilly yesterday, were back absorbing book knowledge.

The return to school by the striking half of the student enrollment came as the result of an arduous day spent by school officials in telephoning parents of the recalcitrants and asking their cooperation—and the parents evidently did their work well.

Aiding in the strike-breaking activities of school authorities were 400 "loyalists," students who refused to stay away from school.

To the strikers, the loyal ones held out the alluring proposition of school closing one week early in June, with plenty of extra swimming to take the place of missed winter sports.

The strike began when the students marched to the office of School Supt. John Anthony, instead of going to classes.

Refused admittance there, they paraded good-naturedly to Dedham square.

Small Loan Interest Cut, Beano Tax Urged

Legislation ranging from a proposed tax on beano games to a mandatory reduction in interest rates on small loans was advocated today before legislative committees at the State House.

Contending that card and number games were controlled by racketeers Rep. Adoph Johnson of Brockton told the committee on taxation that money spent on beano exceeded the $50,000,000 wagered yearly on horses and dogs in the state.

Appearing before the committee of banks and banking in support of his bill to reduce interest rates on small oans from 3 to 1 per cent a month, former Lieut. Gov. Francis E. Kelly said that during 1940 a total of 262,911 persons in this state borrowed more than $37,500,000.

RAPS HIGH CHARGES

A vigorous advocate of lower rates while in office, Kelly said:

"Our laws at the present time unreasonably favor the small loan companies in their exorbitant interest charges to the unfortunate borrower. Three per cent a month, or 36 per cent a year, is the rate these companies are allowed to charge, and this amount is unreasonable.

"Here is your chance to protect the little fellows, the luckless ones who are forced to borrow in order to meet expenses. You will be wined, dined, given considerable attention and put under terrific pressure from the powerful money lenders' lobby, who would squeeze every penny from those least able to pay.

"This is your chance to smother once and for all the greedy lender who is bleeding those who come within his clutches."

OPPOSE RATE SHIFT

Edmund Burke, representing the Massachusetts Ass'n of Personal Finance Companies, argued against reduction in interest rates, telling the committee the state now had a model small loan law and any change would be to the advantage of loan sharks.

Others opposing the proposal were Vernon W. Marr, of Scituate, and Martin W. Newman. The latter read a letter from the Boston Better Business Bureau which said the law had worked well during the past year.

Supporting a proposal of the Lawrence Bar Ass'n, Sen. Thomas J. Lane, of Lawrence, and Rep. Raymond Schlapp, of Methuen, urged the committee on counties to pass a bill permitting erection of a $250,000 district court in Lawrence.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

PLANE, CUTTER JOIN HUNT FOR 3 FISHERMEN

While three Portland fishermen, safe ashore, were singing the praises of Gloucester fishermen for rescuing them from a foundering boat, the search for three other Portland fishers was intensified today when Boston Coast Guard headquarters ordered the cutter Algonquin and the amphibian plane V-115 to join in the widespread hunt for the missing dragger Pemaquid.

Engaged in the search for the Pemaquid since early yesterday the cutter Argo reported to headquarters today it had be unable to discover sign of the missing Portland craft. A Cape Elizabeth station Coast Guard vessel reported its quest had also been fruitless.

John E. Willard, Jr., a member of the firm which owns the Pemaquid said the 48-foot craft had been spoken yesterday 25 miles southwest of the Portland Lightship and reported a minor engine breakdown, but refused assistance.

He said Captain Frank Horr Ejnor Stoddard and Walter Train, all of Portland, were aboard.

The rescued Portlanders, Capt. Olica Christiansen, Shirley Friend and Smith Broome, were saved from their dragger, Inverness, which foundered off Sequin Island, Me., by the crew of the Gloucester fisherman Donald Amirault.

The Inverness struck driftwood, and filled in 20 minutes. When the Amirault arrived the men stood in water hip high frantically working the hand pumps, afraid to take to their dory in the gale-lashed sea.

ACCUSER AT LINEUP—Nurse Florence Gately, 23, of Massachusetts General Hospital views lineup of suspects in police headquarters today, picks out Michael Binkewicz, 25, of West End as the man who entered her Anderson st. apartment, stabbed her three times, tried to attack her, and fled with between $10 and $20. He denied the accusation.

Nurse Identifies Man She Routed

At the police lineup today, Miss Florence Gately, 23, pretty blonde nurse who routed a prowler in her bedroom after she had been stabbed three times, identified Michael Binkewicz, 25, of Anderson st., West End, as her assailant.

Miss Gately, a graduate nurse at Baker Memorial, Massachusetts General Hospital, living in Anderson pl., Beacon Hill, said Binkewicz entered her apartment by a fire escape early in the morning of Feb. 9, while she was asleep. She said he stabbed her and attempted to attack her but that she beat him away. The intruder escaped with between $10 and $20 belonging to Miss Gately and her roommate.

Binkewicz denied Miss Gately's accusation.

4 Die Tonight At Sing Sing

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—Sing Sing's old story is moving once more to a climax scheduled for tonight—the electrocution of four young men in the electric chair.

One held out hope for an 11th-hour reprieve from the Governor.

He was Albert Gaetti, 25, sentenced to die with Joseph P. Carosella, 27, for the murder of a small-time Ozone Park bookmaker in 1939. The other condemned men were Hyman Balatnicov, 28, and David Adler, 27, sentenced for a Times sq. poolroom slaying in 1939.

"I still believe I will get a break," Gaetti said today, and prison attaches indicated there was a possibility he would be reprieved for further testimony.

Small Wonder In Small Claims

A very pretty problem was presented today in Malden's small claims court when the jam of minor debtors and creditors endeavoring to get in and out of the legal battleground ripped off one of the doors, hinges and all.

So now the small claims court may have to decide just who's going to foot the bill for putting its own door back on its feet, or hinges—the county or the town.

Judge Lawrence G. Brooks was presiding in the session at Malden courthouse in Summer st. when the door gave up with a startling crash.

STATE BABY CHARGES ONLY TECHNICAL

On technical charges of infringing the law requiring a license to board babies Mrs. Mabel Morse of Norwell st., Dorchester, was arraigned in Dorchester court today, pleaded not guilty, and was granted a continuance until March 3.

Two allegations were made by the state Child Guardianship Division agents—that Mrs. Morse was operating a boarding house for children under two without a license, and that she had received an infant under two without giving written notice to the state Public Welfare Dept.

It was at the Morse home agents of the Child Guardianship Division reported finding eight infants housed in a laundry shed. In court today, no testimony of alleged neglect or unsatisfactory conditions was offered, or even suggested. Complaints were made on grounds of technicalities alone.

It was an about face after the previous intimations of complaints. Miss Mary T. McCue, inspector for the state division, told reporters after court that all of the infants at the Morse home were "perfectly healthy."

"The purpose in bringing such cases to court is to drive home the lesson that the law must be obeyed, which requires licensing of babies' boarding houses," she said. "Many persons are ignorant of this requirement."

Mrs. Morse had been described by child guardianship agents as having "four children of her own to care for." Her four coordinate adult's neighbors stated.

The so-called "drive against unlicensed infant boarding homes came as Public Welfare Comm. Arthur G. Rotch sought legislative approval of a measure which would require licensing of homes where children over 2, but under 14, are boarded. The bill is now under consideration by the legislative committee on public welfare.

NERVOUS FROM RESTLESS NIGHTS?

Is It Your Kidneys?

Active, normal-acting kidneys and bladder expel from the blood excess acids and poisons—that's their health-giving job.

If kidneys are sluggish or not active enough, these harmful acids and poisons may stay in the blood and cause much misery and distress, and bring on ill health in this regard.

For instance, lazy kidneys may make you nervous if they cause you to lose sleep because of getting up frequently at night. Also may cause dizzy spells, backache, leg cramps or swollen ankles.

Better try a 35-cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules — a real kidney diuretic and stimulant that may do you a lot of good.

They have been helping people for scores of years to relieve their aches and pains when caused by lazy, sluggish kidneys.

But be sure and ask for and get Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules — the genuine — pure and original. Don't be an easy mark and accept a cheap substitute — Look for the GOLD MEDAL on the box — the sign of purity — 35 cents.

1000 More Jews Exiled From Vienna

VIENNA, Feb. 20 (AP)—In a step regarded by Viennese as one of the final chapters in Germany's efforts to clear Vienna of Jews, 1000 Jewish residents of the city, mostly families, were banished yesterday to German-occupied Poland.

Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, it was recalled, said in a Vienna speech shortly after anschluss in 1935 the city would be without Jews within four years.

Four thousand Jews were said to have been sent from Vienna to Poland on Oct. 31, 1939. Yesterday's transport of Jews was reported to have been the second this month, the first having left Feb. 14.

The latest contingent was permitted to take baggage limited to 220 pounds, including bedclothing, utensils and two pairs of shoes. The Jews were permitted to take their money, but were required to convert it into Polish zlotics.

What possessions they could not carry, they were forced to leave behind, turning their apartments over to a representative of the Jewish community.

Reliable informants said all Jews unable to obtain visas for foreign lands would be transported to the area around Lublin, in German-occupied Poland, which apparently is destined for a Jewish settlement.

VICHY, Feb. 20 (AP)—The French Ministry of Industrial Production assigned provisional administrators to 114 more Jewish-owned shops in Paris today.

Previously, administrators had been ordered for 53 other business establishments, including some of

Solons Urge Women Serve As Jurors

The entire feminine delegation of the State Legislature presented a united front today in support of a bill to give women the right to serve on juries.

All four, Representatives Leslie B. Cutler of Needham, Susan B. Donovan of East Boston, Margaret L. Spear of Newton and Catherine E. Falvey of Somerville, asked the Legislature's committee on judiciary to make service by women optional to end opposition of previous years to the measure.

The bill also was supported by representatives of the Massachusetts State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and the Massachusetts State League of Women Voters.

"Women are in every place in the courtroom," declared Mrs. Cutler. "They are judges, clerks, lawyers, defendants and plaintiffs and the only place there are not women is in the jury box."

Army Volunteer Gets Suspended Term

NEWBURYPORT, Feb. 20—Following his explanation that he was out for one last fling before joining the Army, Ray T. Dupre, 26, of Kingston rd., Exeter, N. H., was given a suspended sentence and a fine in court here today on a drunkenness and driving under the influence charges.

Dupre, a carpenter, told Judge Oscar H. Nelson that his draft number was due to come up and he had volunteered for service. But before going to camp he decided to stage a farewell celebration.

The court imposed a 30-day sentence on the driving charge and a $10 fine for drunkenness. Both were suspended by Judge Nelson.

State Osteopathic Board Wins Backing

More than 200 Massachusetts Osteopaths today were recorded in favor of forming a state osteopathic board following a meeting at an alumni dinner of the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

Dr. Edward E. Sullivan, dean of the college, presided at the meeting.

Speakers were Dr. Frank E. Vaughan, Dr. E. MacFarland Tilly, Dr. D. A. Costa, Dr. J. Oliver Saltwell, Dr. Joseph Basso and ex-Gov. Louis Brann of Maine.

Famed Notre Dame Professor Dies

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 20 (AP)—Dr. Arthur E. Haas, 57, noted professor of physics at Notre Dame and authority on the atomic theory of matter, died today.

Dr. Haas, born in Bruenn, then Czechoslovakia, in 1884, was a professor at the Universities of Vienna, Leipzig and London before coming to America in 1927. His standard text in physics has been published in ten languages.

Horn's Continuous Blare on Wrecked Car Traps Fugitive

Frederick B. Curtis, 31, of Fairview ave., Belmont, was making a clean getaway from the Newton police last night until he wrecked his car in a driveway near the Woodland Golf Club on Washington st. and the continuous blare of the horn led the police to the scene.

In Newton district court today, Curtis pleaded guilty to operating under the influence and drunkenness. He was fined $50 on the first charge. The drunkenness complaint was placed on file. He was given until Feb. 27 to pay.

Kane Pooh-Pooh's Idea of Cabs for Fire Truck Drivers

Mayor William E. Kane of Woburn conducted a one-man crusade today before the legislative military affairs and public safety committee against a bill to provide drivers' cabs on fire trucks.

Mayor Kane, who a few years ago feuded with his own fire department and ordered its members to practice jumping into a life net at a 20-foot height, declared:

"These glamour boy firemen are always looking for something. If you provide cabs for the drivers, what about the poor firemen who have to hang on the rear. Pretty soon they'll want us to take them to fires in enclosed vans, with a place to sleep, and smoking jackets."

Main Streets Growing Fast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Main Street—symbol of the nation's thousands of towns under 2500 population—was the fastest growing part of the American map in the last decade.

The census bureau said sample figures from the 1940 census showed that while larger cities gained 7.9 per cent and strictly farm territory declined by a small fraction of a per cent, towns under 2500 boasted a 14.5 per cent gain.

The survey also showed that while men slightly outnumbered women, it's not true in the big cities where females predominate. Males have a slight edge in the small towns and a big margin in the farm territory.

$20 City Worker Spurns Raise

Boston's budget commissioners will never be the same again after hearing today that a $20-a-week employe of the licensing board has refused a step-rate wage increase amounting to about $100 a year.

With much nodding of heads, they listened in awe while Louis Epple, secretary of the board, revealed the requested appropriation for 1941 took into account the clerk's refusal of a wage increase.

City Councilor Joseph Gottlieb, a member of the board, did his best to discover the reason for such an unusual attitude, but it availed him nothing. In answer to his question as to why, Epple answered laconically:

"Just personal reasons."

And that was that!

NEW LIBRARY ROOF TO SAVE BOOKS ASKED

Unless the city of Boston appropriates 235,000 to reroof the Boston Public Library, a collection of rare books valued at more than $5,000,000 may be ruined, Director Milton E. Lord told the budget commission today.

Lord was speaking at a public hearing on the special library appropriation at City Hall.

"The Mayor has allotted only $75,000," Lord said. "That means we could only fix a quarter of the roof this year. Because of the peculiar architectural problems the library offers, only one firm in Boston can do the roofing."

Councilor Philip Austin Fish objected that he'd like to see some bids, and if necessary sacrifice the beauty of the world-famous Boston landmark for practicality.

"We were granted $15,000 last year," Lord said. "We were able to do only patchwork. One part of the leaking roof is over our $6,000,000 collection of irreplaceable rare books."

Joseph Gottlieb, chairman of the commission, objected that you could buy two houses for $15,000, but Lord explained that an architect, in designing a famous monument, sometimes raises problems that a home owner does not face.

Navy Takes Liner Seized From Germany

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Navy is taking over the liner George Washington, seized from Germany during the World War, for use as a naval transport.

Officials said today that the famous old ship, which carried thousands of American troops to France during the World War, was being obtained from the Maritime Commission at no cost to the Navy. It is a 23,788 ton vessel.

Bureau Experts See $41.40 Hub Tax Rate

Instead of a lower tax rate for 1941, Boston faces an increase to $41.40, or 50 cents a thousand more than last year, the Boston Municipal Research Bureau declared today.

Sharply critical of failure of Mayor Tobin to enforce the "no-hiring" policy, the bureau asserted that economies of $1,200,000, or new revenues to that amount, or a combination of both are the only alternatives.

"Lower welfare requirements in 1941 will result primarily in reduced current expense borrowing rather than in tax rate savings," the statement read.

"Debt costs will increase. Items which are used as offsets to debt costs will certainly be smaller in 1941.

INCOME OVERESTIMATED

"State officials hold out little hope for an increase in the state-distributed income and business taxes . . . Boston greatly overestimated probable 1940 income from city and county departments.

"Another loss in assessed valuations is inevitable . . . a drop of 40 millions, as was the case last year, would not be surprising. The tax rate equivalent is a dollar."

The bureau points "as evidence of the breakdown of the no-hiring policy" to the police and school departments particularly.

Under the heading of "Two Exhibits of Extravagance," it reviews the employment of 139 patrolmen in 1940 despite detailed recommendations of the Finance Commission to reduce the size of the police force, and scores the school committee for lowering teacher loads.

SCHOOL QUOTAS CITED

In 1939, the bureau's bulletin states, the quota of first grade pupils per teacher was lowered from 40 to 35, in the face of a warning this would create "a ruinous financial policy."

Then on Dec. 16, 1940, the second and third grade teacherload was lowered from 42 to 35 pupils "quite without adequate public consideration."

"Obviously this process may be extended indefinitely," the bureau comments.

"The need for a less expansive point of view has particular force because it is really the mayor, and not the school committee, who is held responsible for the tax rate."

Bugs Takes Triple Bow

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Distributed by International News Service

It's getting so close to George Washington's Birthday I think I should talk about myself. I got as three nice boosts this week as any man ever got in his life.

First, Mr. Hearst said in Editor and Publisher that he would like to write as easily as Runyon, Durling and me.

Then the late John Dovovan in "Sparks From a Bed of Pain" in Rob Wagner's "Script" was kind enough to mention me in the same breath with the immortal Peter Finley Dunne.

"I've been reading Dooley's book and his analysis of heroism," wrote John, "like Bugs in another vein—says it all. There has never been anyone who approached Dunne as a philospher-humorist.

"Like Baer, his method was bedded in the classic design. I'm often astounded by the mind of Baer—a phrase reduces the whole range of speculative controversy to its ultimate logical analysis.

"I think of the involved rhetoric, the endless qualifications, which only confuse, the refurbishing of mildewed copybook maxims, the threadbare philosophic apothegms or certain windy commentators—and then I read Dooley or Baer—and I marvel."

And the illustrious Irvin Cobb in his just published autobiography "Exit Laughing" says: "When the best of them doesn't feel funny—which is most of the time—he just doesn't feel funny and that's all there is to it.

"That indestructible prodigy, Bugs Baer, who has made a cosmic record by producing an acceptable string of wheezes seven days a week, 52 weeks a year, for 20-odd years, is a lonely exception.

"The Bugs Baers do not occur in bunches, like grapes; they occur singly, once in a millennium, like the blooming of a century plant."

Well, I can't argue with that.

New Charmer On Globe Bill

Specialist in Egyptian dances is exotic Mimi Lynne, young, shapely and magnetic, who will lead the glamour girls in the road-show burlesque opening at the Globe tomorrow and topping the first day with a midnight frolic for the particular pleasure of those staying up to see the holiday in. Midnight shows at the Globe are rare and gala events and there is always a rush for the reserved seats.

Mimi Lynne

Hazel Miller, Mimi Reed and Doris Karr are three more beauty queens with the incoming show. The 30 dancing Bernardolls are gay young features of all the Globe shows and favorites in their own right. The big Globe production numbers are fit to compare with Broadway revue spectacles in feminine lure and handsome scenic effects.

Mandy Kay comes back to the Globe to give the show some real merry holiday flavor and to insure a feast of fun for the Globe fans. Mandy ranks among the most popular comedians ever starred at this classy burlesque house.

Ray Parsons, the Petty Sisters and Bruce Monroe will be the vaudeville features for the next week.

NEW NORMANDIE BILL

"Thief of Bagdad," Oriental melodrama done in technicolor and with Sabu, the East Indian boy, and Conrad Veidt in the top roles, is billed at the Normandie for the next week. With it is "Little Nellie Kelly," musical romance featuring Judy Garland.

'Hudson's Bay' Held 2d Week

"Hudson's Bay," latest Paul Muni picture, has done so well at the Keith Memorial that it is being held for a second week. Keith's is now in the midst of one of its most prosperous eras. The Muni film, scoring a popular hit on top of the tremendous success credited to "Kitty Foyle," is proof of this.

The Muni picture presents the star as a French-Canadian fur trapper who makes himself rich and powerful in the gaudy days of Charles the Second of London, who had the flashy Nell Gwyn around for romantic relief. John Sutton is featured as young Lord Edward Crew, who is banished from the royal court only to make good in the Canadian wilds. Milord and Pierre Radisson, the canny Canadian played by Muni, start the Hudson's Bay trading company and flourish in the midst of furs and London fashions.

Magnetic Gene Tierney appears as the court charmer in love with Lord Crew. Laird Cregar, gigantic newcomer, plays the part of Gooseberry, Pierre's trapper pal. All these players give Muni splendid support. Virginia Field has the court siren role. Vincent Price, Nigel Bruce and Montagu Love round out a fine cast for this 20th Century-Fox production directed by Irving Pichel.

John Barrymore keeps the Keith audiences amused in "The Invisible Woman," which has Virginia Bruce in the title role. Barrymore is no clown this time, but a player of the first rank, as he can be when he wants to be. There is also a new Disney cartoon, "Goofy's Glider."

War Play at Beacon Stars Spencer Tracy

Spencer Tracy is starred in "Sky Devils," drama of American fliers' adventures in first World War days, which is opening on the Beacon screen today. William Boyd, George Cooper and Ann Dvorak are with the famous star in this aerial thriller. Another war picture on the same bill is "Blackout," which deals with the German attack on England and has Conrad Veidt and Valerie Hobson as stars.

Stirling Hayden At Met in Person

Stirling Hayden, the former Gloucester skipper, will make three personal appearances daily on the stage of the Metropolitan on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday next in conjunction with the current showing of his picture, "Virginia," which features the handsome young star teamed with Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray.

THOUGHTFULLY Paul Muni broods on his ice-bound fate as the explorer-hero of "Hudson's Bay," 20th Century-Fox film epic at the Memorial.

Katharine Hepburn Needs No Double for High Diving

Katharine Hepburn wears a bathing suit on the screen for the first time in "The Philadelphia Story" comedy set for a Boston first showing at the State and Orpheum today. Not only that, but in the swimming pool scene, which was not shown when the Barry play was making its record run on the stage, she performs several jackknife dives from a 10-foot springboard.

Director George Cukor suggested the diving while the pool scene was being filmed and the star said she could do it and do it willingly. No double for her! The scene went through with no hitch and no cut, with La Hepburn proving her athletic ability beyond all question.

This is the scene in which the heroine has her fling after a champagne bout with the newspaper man portrayed by James Stewart and leads to her reunion with the ex-husband played by Cary Grant.

All three players are starred in this Metro film.

Today's Programs For Ballet Russe

At the Boston Opera House this afternoon the Ballet Russe stars will be seen in "Swan Lake," "Cinderella" and "Aurora's Wedding." The bill for tonight offers "Carnaval," "Petrouchka" and "Graduation Ball."

2 Spicy Farces At Trans-Lux

By JOYCE DANA

As gay as Paris used to be in April, "The Virgin Bride," with Mam'selle Danielle Darrieux at her provocative prettiest in the title role, had the ropes up early holding out the lobby crowds at the Trans-Lux opening

This frothy farce from the French studios has been provided with excellent English subtitles, which point up the typically Parisian wit just as cleverly even if you don't parlez Francais. As for Danielle, she's a bundle of dynamite, and her language is universal.

Danielle's papa wants her to marry someone described by his fiery daughter as a great bore who can't dance, doesn't dress well and is too thin. Papa is adamant, and to bite off her pert little nose to spite her pretty face, Danielle chooses fat, middle-aged Albert Letournel, who fancies himself as a wow with the fair sex. But Mons. Letournel has a "little boy."

Little George, who is discovered by his new step-mama just as the knot is tied, turns out to be tall, tanned and terrific. He's a doctor. One look at sonny boy is enough for Danielle, and consequently papa has to pace outside milady's boudoir all during the honeymoon and long after.

It's when the gigolos step in that George decides to save the family name. But not until after Danielle runs off with one of her admirers, drinks too much champagne, dances and sings a solo rhumba and is saved at that well-known crucial moment by George himself. There's an annulment of the November-May match, and this time the wedding bells really ring out. Papa gives the two children his blessing!

There's more sophistication than spice in this slight little piece which was more aptly titled in its original version, "Mam'selle, Ma Mere." And Danielle is delightful.

LIFE IS LIKE THIS in "Virginia," romantic film, beginning today at the Metropolitan, with Fred MacMurray and Madeleine Carroll.

Gayety's Midnight Show Aids British

There will be a midnight show at the Gayety tomorrow night in aid of the British war relief fund E. M. Loew is donating the theatre for the occasion and has arranged for the presentation of two popular pictures, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," which has James Stewart and Jean Arthur as stars, and "Torpedo Raider," which shows deep sea warfare. The climax of the war film is the Graf Spee wreck. Popular prices will prevail

'High Sierra' Now At Scollay, Modern

Humphrey Bogart is starred in "High Sierra," gangster film, on the Scollay and Modern bill opening tomorrow. Ida Lupino is the feminine interest in the melo drama. The comedy offering is "Honeymoon for Three," which has Ann Sheridan, George Brent, Charles Ruggles, Osa Masson and Jane Wyman in the leading roles. The last show at both houses Friday evening, eve of the holiday, starts at 9 o'clock.

Catholic Mass Film Is Shown

"The Perpetual Sacrifice," a film of the Roman Catholic Mass is now showing in Town Hall upstairs at the Repertory

The action follows the celebrant from the time of his vesting through to the last Gospel, all in English, which is highly instructive, even to many Catholics, accustomed only to Latin.

To keep step with the ritual, there are interpolated scenes re-enacting dramatic episodes in the Testament, New and Old

Both producer and players are non-professional. As a devotional exercise, "The Perpetual Sacrifice" may be recommended. As a work of art, it is regrettably far below its exalted subject. Only the highest professional skills could have met the hazards.

British Smash Juba Lines in Fierce Fight

CAIRO, Feb. 20 (AP)—The British Middle East command announced today its troops had smashed across the Juba river in Italian Somaliland in a drive northeastward toward Mogadiscio, capital and major port of that East African colony.

The crossing of the river apparently was made north of the captured port of Chisimaio in the region of Gelib.

Counterattacking Italians were beaten back, today's communique said, adding that "operations in this area are developing well."

RAF CLEARS WAY

The forcing of the river followed five days of fighting against bitterly resisting Italians. Repeated RAF dive-bomb assaults on the Fascist positions helped clear the way for the British infantry.

Prior to this advance the British had announced the occupation of 10,000 square miles of Italian Somaliland up to the Juba river.

Mogadiscio, their main objective, is some 225 miles north of Gelib on the Indian Ocean.

On the Ethiopian front, to the north, an official announcement at Nairobi, Kenya, said, the Italian garrison at Mega, in southern Ethiopia, capitulated to South African troops.

At this outpost, 40 miles inside Ethiopia from the Kenya border 600 prisoners, mostly Europeans, were reported captured along with rifles and machine guns.

NATIVE REVOLT SPREADS

South African airmen, striking ahead of these land forces, reported a heavy assault on Yavello, 200 miles northwest of Moyale, on the Kenya-Ethiopian frontier. Direct hits were said to have been scored on the fort, camp, administrative buildings and barracks.

In northwestern Ethiopia, the British have reported continued success for a spreading revolt of natives of untamed Gojjam province against the Italians and said that a British drive in that area might reach Addis Ababa, the capital, within a month.

On other African fronts, including those in Eritrea and Libya, today's GHQ war bulletin said there was "no change in the situation."

ROME, Feb. 20 (AP)—A quick counterattack by Italian forces was reported today by the Italian high command to have beaten off with "considerable losses" an "enemy" assault on the oasis of Cufra in the Libyan desert.

The communique did not identify the attackers, but "free French" forces operating from the Chad territory previously have been reported in the Cufra area.

Heavy fighting also was reported on the Somaliland front, where the Italians said the British had made "repeated violent attacks" in an attempt to cross the Juba river.

3d of France's R.R. Cars Seized

VICHY, France, Feb. 20 (AP)—Transportation authorities asserted today that Germany had requisitioned $320,000,000 worth of the rolling stock of French railways—every third freight car in France. Of the remainder, only one quarter are in the unoccupied zone—60,000 cars to serve two-fifths of the nation.

Before the war, it was said, France had 450,000 freight cars of 10, 20 and 30-ton capacities. After the armistice last June, the Germans began to requisition them systematically, taking mostly 20-ton cars. By November, they had taken 85,000 cars, and by January, had 65,000 more—a third of the total equipment.

This is another in a series of letters from Britons to friends and relatives in Greater Boston.

To: Mrs. L. T. Campbell, 35 Raymond st., West Somerville, Mass.

From: Dorothy Morley, 10 Sanford st., Newcrose, S. E., London, England

My dear Dorothy,

I haven't heard from you or Elsie for months. I have news of Aunt for you. I wrote to Tom and asked if he could give me any news and I had a letter from him on the 23d of December.

He said she had been tossed out of her home and received a pretty bad injury and went to live with him. She was taken to bed with a bad cold and was delirious and light in head. She was expected and is now at "Ivy No. 5 London Hospital, Kentucky, Kent."

It is a long way away, just Fantastic. Wish we were not yet so far off. What is worst is that I can't see Tom and last time he was here she wasn't so well and he himself has had a breakdown and been away from work.

LAUDS FIREMEN

Our fire fighters have been marvelous. It is a wonder they haven't reached out. The fires have been more than terrible some times the firemen have been hemmed in by surrounded with fire. They have had to lie down in the water and look from the fires, been under shells (like machine guns) there in the light of the fires. Then machine-gun the rescue parties too. Dirtiest lot of rotters on the face of the earth.

I sent Aunt a Christmas card and told her a letter follows and will explain that I've written to you by airmail and I will send her a stamped addressed envelope and a piece of paper so she can write to you if she is well enough.

It may not get through, as I expect my letters to you and yours to me are at the bottom of the briny ocean. Tom said he didn't know your address.

I guess poor old Aunt felt very neglected and bewildered with all the terrible experiences she has had at her time of life, too.

I don't know whether you will write to her by air mail, but if you do, in case she has left the hospital, put on the back, "Care of charged from hospital, deliver to Mr. Harvey Ltd., Southover, Bromley, Kent." That's Tom's address and he should be able to get it to her quickly.

I hope she will be kept in the country somewhere until all this is over. London is no place for old people on their own and deaf as she is, and it's no place for young children either, although there are still plenty here.

RACKET OF GUNS

You can't imagine the damage to your people's homes apart from the life goes on much the same. We air-raid wisely. We only had a few feet of shell sticking on the roof to new removed and glades. Practice small window broken a little bit. I hope your friends are safe and well, and have not had any homes damaged.

We thought when the Italians started that things part could go on like that but it's not over and we are getting quite tough.

The guns make a terrific speed and it's dropping near shop the house. When Jim were bad Mom and I go downstairs in Gladys, or into kitchen now it's cold and step down there. Yes we do obey, don't we the row.

Bill is working away hos been since July, but he gets home weekends. George is on A. R. P. duty some nights at the docks, then we three are alone. Still we are sticking it out in our own houses be[illegible] that if we are to be hit we [illegible] no matter where we are.

I hope to get me and will do [illegible] I can't you must be feeling about Aunt. The last I heard from her was when Elsie moved, and I have not her address.

We are all hoping that the end of the war is in sight now we and the Germans are posting the Balkans and the RAF bases are not night [illegible] A few awful nights. Those are certain to tell us times to be saving and we hope to put an end to it now and for all this time.

We are all well, a bit weary sometimes specially Mum, but she is standing up to it like a real "Ancient Briton." We had a quiet Christmas.

DANCE TO WIRELESS

Gladys and George came up for a couple of hours and we had a dance to the wireless. We had turkey and pudding in spite of old Hitler's blockade. We'll have him for mince meat next year.

Cheerio, keep your chins up. Love from all,

DOROTHY

U.S. Envoy's Kin Dies a Prisoner

VICHY, France, Feb. 20 (INS)—Death in a French concentration camp of a Mrs. Uhlman, aunt of Henry Waterman, United States consul in Bordeaux, was disclosed in Vichy today.

Mrs. Uhlman, a German subject, was detained in a camp in the Basses-Pyrenees.

Hugh Fullerton American consul general at Bordeaux wrote the camp commander pointing out she was the aunt of a United States consular official, guaranteeing financial responsibility and requesting her release.

No answer was received and she died later she died.

Fullerton is inquiring as to details. The French position is legally clear since Mrs. Uhlman was not an American and her status was no different from that of thousands of other German refugees and Jews under detention.

Swansea and London Nazi Bomb Targets

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The industrial port of Swansea, in South Wales, and London, where bombs wrecked one block of a large municipal hospital, killing almost a score of patients and a nurse, bore the brunt of last night's attack by the German air force.

Reliable sources said 19 were killed and 52 injured in the hospital.

The government said bombers raked Swansea with high explosives damaging "a considerable number of houses and business premises."

A direct hit was scored on the London Hospital, demolishing a part of it and killing several patients in their beds. One nurse's body was found under the wreckage.

Other patients were buried in debris. Rescue squads, doctors and nurses worked by the rays of flashlights through the night to release them.

Rescue work was halted when a delayed action bomb was discovered near another wing of the hospital. The patients were quickly removed.

All trapped survivors had been extricated by dawn. A children's hospital in another part of London was damaged but there were no casualties.

An elderly woman was killed when seven high explosive bombs rained down in one London district, two pedestrians died under the wreckage of an apartment block, and two children were killed when a light standard crashed through the roof and struck the bed in which they were sleeping.

Air activity ceased for the night shortly after midnight, but shortly before noon today sirens sounded an alarm in London. The all clear sounded in less than an hour.

NAZIS CLAIM ATTACK ON 7 BRITISH SHIPS

BERLIN, Feb. 20 (AP)—Sinking of two British armed merchantmen by speedboat torpedoes, successful bombing of four large merchantmen and the firing of a British destroyer were reported today by the German high command after a sweep against British land and sea objectives.

Combat units of the Luftwaffe also "bombed dock facilities in London, Swansea, Plymouth and Chatham," the daily communique said, while in the Mediterranean warfare bomb hits were scored on two large merchantmen in a raid on the British-captured Libyan port of Bengasi.

Five British pursuit planes were reported downed in the Mediterranean and the Germans acknowledged loss of two planes.

CLAIM DESTROYERS BOMBED

Informed sources had reported that Portland, naval base on the English south coast, was bombed also, but the communique did not mention it.

The communique said that a single speedboat, operating in heavy fog, sank two armed merchant ships totaling 10,000 tons in the southern part of the North Sea, while planes on armed reconnaissance struck merchantmen in convoy north of the Hebrides and off the English east and southeast coasts "so heavily that the loss is apparent."

AIRPORTS DAMAGED

The destroyer bombed and fired according to the high command, was off Harwich, on the east coast.

The British acknowledged that "considerable" damage was done last night by bombs dropped on the big Welsh port of Swansea, Wales, and reported a number of casualties in England and Scotland.—Editor's note.

Airports, factories and rail facilities were said to have been effectively bombed by reconnaissance planes yesterday. Runways and hangars at two airports were reported badly damaged and a number of workshops in Scotland were said to have suffered.

A moving freight train near York was reported attacked, several cars set afire and a section of track destroyed.

The Germans also reported today that their speedboats had sunk two British merchant ships of about 10,000 tons each off the English coast.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted Filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The naval base at Brest and docks at Calais both in German-occupied France were attacked last night by British aircraft, the air ministry announced today.

Hitler at Last Rites for Aide

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 20 (AP)—Adolf Hitler and other high Nazi leaders attended a state funeral here today for Hermann Kriebel, World War member of the German general staff and the post-war armistice commission, who died Monday.

Rudolf Hess, Hitler's deputy, delivered the eulogy and the Fuehrer laid a wreath. Other Nazi chieftains present were Reichsmarshal Herman Wilhelm Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Kriebel, in recent years chief of the foreign office personnel department, was remembered for his remark "see you again in 20 years" when he bade farewell to the Allied Armistice Commission in 1919.

GREEKS PRESSING ITALIANS WITHOUT LET-UP IN ALBANIA

ATHENS, Feb. 20 (AP)—Greek soldiers pressing the Italians in Albania without let-up after three Fascist counter-attacks in two days and captured two "stubbornly defended villages," reported today to have repulsed it was announced today.

However, the battle lines in Albania apparently have not changed materially in some time despite continuing Greek reports of successes. The Greeks have not yet taken Tepeleni, key point in the drive on the southern Albanian port of Valona. The counter-attacks reported here presumably were in the Tepeleni sector.—Editor's Note.

The Greek government spokesman reported that in one phase of the fighting a Fascist company which had begun to retreat was rallied upon by fellow-Italians and forced back to the front lines.

HEAVY COST

The counter-attacks by the Italians cost them heavily in men and material, the spokesman said. Three hundred Italians and much equipment were captured in yesterday's fighting alone, he added.

SEES AID SPEEDED

Prefacing his remarks with the warning that what he was divulging to the committeemen was not "his secret," Gen. Marshall was reported to have specified what he considered an irreducible minimum" of aircraft and other equipment which the United States should have on hand to meet any situation that might develop anywhere in the world.

Aid to Britain, he was reported to have told the committee, could b speeded up materially by passage of the British aid bill, since coordination of production for the British and for the Army and Navy would then become possible.

This, he was quoted as saying, would eliminate especially "competition" over various types of planes. Once the bill became law, he said, one production head could determine the standardized types of planes to be produced for both the British and American forces and industrial production could be speeded on these types

CALLS OUTLOOK GLOOMY

Sen. Lee (D.) of Oklahoma, leaving before Marshall had finished, told reporters the Army chief had given "all in all a rather optimistic picture about England's chances."

"He told us some rather encouraging things," Lee said.

Sen. Holman (R.) of Oregon, on whose motion Marshall was called before the committee, said he was very well satisfied with what he had learned.

Japs Massing Big Army To Menace Singapore

SHANGHAI Feb. 20 (AP)—Reports for which the Associated Press was unable to obtain direct confirmation circulated here tonight that Japanese army contingents packed aboard transports were moving southward from Formosa and even Japan proper, presumably headed for Hainan Island, off the South China coast, or Northern Indo China.

The reports were considered by some circles to indicate Japan's intention to strike at many thousand Australian fighting men at Singapore, Britain's Oriental fortress. Hainan has been considered a likely stepping stone for any Japanese move southward toward Singapore or the Dutch East Indies.

Other reports were received that Japan had demanded, at the Tokyo "peace conference" between Thailand and French Indo-China, the use of bases and transport facilities in those two countries which could be used for naval and military moves against Singapore.

These included the French naval base at Camranh bay, on Indo-China's east coast, airports and railway and highway facilities in both these countries.

Reports of these demands, attributed to Chinese close to the Japanese military in Shanghai, said they were made by Foreign Minister Josuke Matsuoka in the conference in which he heeds the Japanese mediators.

Sweeping economic concessions also were demanded, the reports said.

Hongkong and Bangkok reports said 15 units of the Japanese fleet were known to be operating in the Gulf of Siam, north of Singapore. These advices coincided with previous reports from Saigon that two Japanese squadrons were in those waters.

30,000 British Troops Now Guard Malay Area

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20 (INS)—At least 30,000 British troops with full mechanized equipment, transported on such vessels as the new liner Queen Mary, near Elizabeth and Manhattan, now are based on the Malay Peninsula, following arrival at Singapore, it was learned in Shanghai today.

The Ile de France, French luxury liner, now is at Singapore, it was revealed.

The captain and crew mates [illegible] unsuccessful efforts to scuttle the liner but failed and the crew of almost 1000, with the exception of [illegible] officers and [illegible] were rescued by [illegible].

Of the 30,000 British troops who have come to Malaya, [illegible] are the 18,000 men which consisting of several regiments from England and the balance from Australia and India. All have been placed in defensive positions.

Nine transports recently brought 15 Indian regiments which were immediately posted on the Malay frontier. These definitely include the Gurkhas made famous by Kipling, who were [illegible] and of India.

PACT WITH BULGARIA BAR TO GERMANY, TURKEY HOLDS

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 20 (AP)—Officially controlled Turkish newspapers said today the Bulgarian-Turkish non-aggression accord is insurance that Bulgaria will not join the Axis and that it actually constitutes an obstacle to any German advance through Bulgaria to Greece.

"Bulgaria promises not to enter the tripartite pact," said the newspaper Vakit.

"It would not be easy for Germany to go to fight in Greece against the Greek and Turkish armies unless the way had been thoroughly prepared as in Rumania and this declaration makes this preparation more difficult."

"EXAGGERATED" VIEWS

The newspaper Tan said it was an exaggeration to interpret the declaration "as the British do, that it is a wall to further German penetration of the Balkans, or, as the Germans say, that it is a political defeat for England.

"This declaration was made simply to reassure Bulgaria that our preparations in Thrace (the frontier region) are not offensive in nature. Bulgaria indicates her unwillingness to allow German soldiers to pass through her territory.

"At the same time Bulgaria is too weak to help any German drive, but a German march through Bulgaria might cause a revolution there and allow the British to block Rumanian oil fields."

The newspaper Ikdam declared that, "although we made this declaration with Bulgaria, our doors are closed to Germany and we shall keep our obligations to Greece and Britain."

Reynolds Fights Aid Bill as War Danger

to the extent of providing planes for her, with which she can attain supremacy of the air, she would reconquer all of the territory taken by Hitler.

"Of course, we all know that Europe could not be conquered from the air. To conquer or to reclaim conquered territory, the foot soldier of today is just as necessary as was the foot soldier of Napoleon's day.

"It would be easier to conquer a country by radio waves, propaganda, than it would be to conquer or reconquer a territory without the actual employment of soldiers on the ground."

Reynolds brought up, too, what he said was a statement of Navy Secretary Knox that the United States was dependent on maintenance of the British Navy for its future security.

LOST WITHOUT AID

"Actually," Reynolds asserted, "Britain admits that unless we go to her aid she is lost."

"In view of the fact that we are constantly being called upon to give assistance to Great Britain in the form of energy, wealth and the blood of our men in order to maintain the British Empire," he said, "it appears to me that they should acknowledge if some Americans won't, that they are dependent upon us to maintain their world-wide empire, rather than that we are dependent upon them for our continued existence."

The last war, Reynolds said, should have demonstrated to the United States that she gained little toward saving democracy, Christianity or civilization by fighting.

Involvement in the present war, he said, would be "directly contributing to the destruction of American democracy."

SEES U. S. BANKRUPT

"Upon the shoulders of the American taxpayer billions of dollars in additional indebtedness will be placed," he continued, "and our nation will be virtually bankrupt—we will be responsible for the unwarranted murder of American soldiers, and we will wind up with chaos, crepe, poverty, disease, pestilence, unemployment, perhaps revolution, and serious assaults will be made on our present American way of life."

British propaganda, he said, "has swept the American people off their feet" so that some Americans "who are interested only in the defense, protection and preservation of Americanism are branded by some as dupes and fifth columnists" because they have not given full support to the British aid program.

"SAVE AMERICA FIRST"

"Our first line of defense is here at home, not thousands of miles away," he continued. "And the simple truth of the matter is that Britain herself does not believe our first line of defense is over there.

"I confess to the accusation that I am an isolationist. I believe that we should look after America first.

"Some call us continentalists, some appeasers, some Fifth Columnists, some traitors, some pro-Nazis, but whatever they call us, because we are interested in America first, our view upon the issue of saving America for Americans still prevails in our hearts and minds."

Sun Life Shows Gain in Assets

MONTREAL, Feb. 20—Praising the American attitude toward the war and expressing appreciation for the help rendered Great Britain in its struggle, Arthur B. Wood, president of the Sun Life Assurance Co., revealed new gains for the company at the 70th annual meeting.

He told stockholders that assets of the company in 1940 increased $36,000,000 to about $950,000,000.

Payments to policyholders, Wood said, exceeded $94,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000. Business in force jumped $25,000,000 to approximately $3,000,000,000.

An interesting feature of Woods' report was the death rate figure showing the normal rate among policyholders in the United States was higher than that experienced in either Great Britain or Canada, including mortality due to the war.

In connection with the company's foreign business, Wood pointed out that only 13 per cent of the total was with people in Great Britain and that no operations were conducted on the continent.

The bond investment account, according to Wood, showed an increase of more than $16,000,000 and now stands at $507,000,000. The account, representing the principal asset of Sun Life, consists of government, municipal, public utility and other bonds.

HUB WOMEN AID BILL FOES SENT TO MARCH ON CAPITOL

After protesting display of a "Defend America by Aiding the Allies" banner strung across Washington st., the Massachusetts Women's Political Club today marshaled its members for a march on Washington to protest against the lend-lease bill.

Miss Florence Birmingham, president, announced an advance motor cavalcade will leave the Old State House Saturday morning, and predicted that next week will see thousands on thousands of women protesting Bill 1776 in the Capital.

A delegation of the club registered their protest against the Boston banner at City Hall. In discussing the issue, Miss Birmingham said:

"We in the Massachusetts Women's Political Club are strongly of the opinion that America can best be defended by using all our resources in defense of our own nation. Official records show our nation's means of defense are all too slender.

"This banner is a dishonor to the historic streets of Boston, the cradle of our liberty and independence, since it advocates our dependence for defense upon that very nation from whom we wrested our independence. The streets of Boston should not be used for the purpose of foreign propaganda. Who are the 'Allies?' Britain? Russia?

"And whose allies are they? Not ours, certainly; the United States fights its own battles. We believe that America should come first and we demand that this sign be taken down at once.

"The street commissioner admitted no permit could be secured for such a sign; he has by law no right to give permission for stretching such a slogan across the public thoroughfare. We are justified in our protest against its presence which is an insult to taxpayers who believe in America first."

SNORES WIN HIM PAROLE, NOW HE NEEDS PARDON

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 20 (AP)—Dusky John "Iron Jaw" Smith believes his violent snoring helped him get a parole from the state penitentiary nine months ago but now, he told Parole Defender Joseph Lovely, he wants a pardon because he is paying through the nose.

Since his release four rooming houses have evicted him for his rasping snore, and he won't have full civic rights restored so he can get a place of his own.

The 6-foot 2-inch giant, who dwindled to a mere 240 pounds from his former 410, got his nickname from chewing nails in a circus act. "He's working on a farm, but even there his snoring is a problem.

"When I commence snoring the dogs start barking, cats meowing and the chickens cackling," he said. "If I could get a place of my own then I could go ahead and snore."

Smith sentenced to life in 1933 on a first degree murder charge, snored so loudly he kept his fellow prisoners awake. The warden put him in the basement, but then the snoring echoed and kept guards awake. Finally he was isolated so he could snore contentedly.

When he applied for a parole no one objected and it was granted unanimously.

Lovely, who defended Smith in the trial, said he would attempt to get a full pardon.

Tropical Park Romance

By George Dixon

BY DINT of shoving, bucking and giving the elbow to an undecided stout woman with an advanced case of haughtiness, Freddy McNulty got to the $2 tote window just in time to buy two losing tickets.

Ignoring the prodded lady's comments anent fresh children, who should be restricted to the grandstand with the rest of the riff-raff, he hurried out to the terraced steps of Tropical Park's clubhouse.

The horses were rounding the first turn, but Freddy's gaze went automatically to a spectacle he found far worthier of rapture—Helen Mary Smith, on tiptoes on a chair, a rare and lovely sight, viewed from any angle.

A beautiful picture it was, but Freddy detected two glaring flaws. Not only was his beloved cheering for the wrong steed, but she was being steadied on her perch by that blot on the Florida landscape, Merton Foster. Furthermore, the loathsome Foster, who fancied himself at least three points better than irresistible, was doing the steadying in the most nauseating manner.

His arm was about Helen Mary's waist. Young Mr. McNulty glared at the offending member, but it failed to wither, or even droop. The girl was too engrossed, looking for Blue Wrinkle, to notice. Employing considerable emphasis, Freddy informed her she happened to have her money on Transmitter.

"No, I haven't," she said. "I changed my mind."

Freddy tried to be reasonable. "How can you change your mind when I've bought the tickets?"

"That's all right — just throw them away. We'll make enough on Blue Wrinkle—won't we, Merton? Merton knew Blue Wrinkle would win too, and he bought me a ticket."

Mr. Foster tried to look modest, but a smirk leaked through.

"I figured Blue Wrinkle to win," he explained. "Of course," with a foul leer at Freddy, "when Helen Mary picked him too, I knew he couldn't lose. You certainly know your horses, baby."

"She does not!" howled Freddy. "This is the first time she's ever been to a racetrack in her life . . . Say, what happened on that back turn?"

"Nothing," reported Helen Mary, "except that Blue Wrinkle went ahead some more. And I guess I know as much about horses as you do. Go on, Blue Wrinkle!"

Foster smirked again and adjusted his arm more snugly. Freddy, doing a slow burn, whispered a low command to the fellow to remove his embrace. The order was ignored.

Freddy grasped the arm and tried to pull it away. It wouldn't budge. Then rage overcame discretion. Digging, dirk-like, the sharp point of pencil he had purchased with the official program, he jabbed viciously at Foster's hand.

This would have proved quite painful to the offender, except that Freddy's arm was faulty. The horrifying result was that Miss Smith received a bloa.

She swung around, anguished and ferocious. Unfortunately she swung too far.

The Cast of Characters in "Tropical Park Romance"

FREDDY, who loves to play tips, but seldom cashes.

HELEN, who attends her first race, then bets on the tips from

FOSTER, Freddy's arch rival.

The clubhouse chairs at Tropical are not designed for balancing acts. Freddy tried to retrieve the girl but succeeded only in breaking Foster's hold. Flailing the air, Helen Mary plopped backward into space.

"YOU PUSHED ME!"

Below, in the row in front, and so disinterested in the race as to remain seated, was a fat man, poring over the Racing Form. Helen Mary made a forced landing in his lap.

The fat party emitted a stricken cry. Freddy leaped to the rescue but fell across the overturned chair. As he sprawled there, looking like a beginner in a swimming class practicing the breast stroke, Helen Mary righted herself and came up snorting.

"You pushed me!" she accused Freddy. "You stabbed me in the . . . You stabbed me . . . and then you knocked me over! Just because I bet on another horse!"

Freddy strove to explain, but a new burst of sound drowned him out. Helen Mary halted recriminations to demand who had won.

"Blue Wrinkle," spluttered the fat man. "And now," he added, nastily, "let's you and I go play leapfrog."

Helen Mary gave his bulk a stare of contempt, which seemed a bit unfair, considering she'd just used it for a safety net. But her retort was directed at Freddy. She desisted only when the prices flashed yellow on the big tote board, and Foster bellowed—within two inches of her ear—that Blue Wrinkle had paid $13.90.

He suggested a drink on it. Freddy, who had pointedly not been invited, snarled he didn't want a drink.

"Maybe it's as well," said Helen Mary. "You might feel like pulling the stool from under me."

Freddy spent the interim working up a good case of I'm-through-with-you-my-fine-girl-forever. But it subsided somewhat when Helen Mary emerged, smiling gentle forgiveness.

"Sorry I was so mean, honey," she said. "I know you really didn't do it on purpose."

He permitted himself to be thawed out gradually.

For the next race, Freddy had a tip on Glory Be—courtesy of Gus, the manager at Tourist City, cottage colony on Biscayne Boulevard in Miami, where Mr. McNulty had a bungalow. Helen Mary and her mother also were Tourist Cityites, and the girl announced she'd go on Glory Be, too.

"That does it," jeered Foster. "He'll be left at the gate."

Glory Be was not left at the gate; in fact he was first out. The only trouble was that Lancastro, his jockey, had chosen the split second of the start to shift position and had grasped both sides of the stall to hoist himself forward in his saddle. The horse shot clean out from under him, leaving the astounded fellow dangling in space.

"Ha, ha!" cackled Foster. "Now all he's got to do is wait for the horse to come around again and drop on him as he passes."

"Very clever — very subtle," snapped Freddy. "About as subtle as a two-headed calf."

Nothing, of course, went right after that and Foster had a gazman's field day. When the eighth race was over and they shook the tormenter—who had his own car—Freddy's mood was deplorable.

He swerved madly through traffic, not even slowing up in Coral Gables where they don't like trick driving.

They parted in silence a foot thick, and all that evening and far into the night, Freddy's ire mounted. The next day they had a date, as always, but he kept aloof. About 1:30 he got out his car and went to the track alone.

Arriving there, he began to feel not too happy about things, and had decided he'd seek out Helen Mary the minute he got back and accept her weeping apologies—when he saw her emerging from the cocktail lounge with Foster.

She elected to be blandly sarcastic. "What a surprise," she cooed. "Imagine meeting you, of all people! I often say, it's a small world, don't you Merton?"

"Too small," sneered Foster.

Freddy maintained the reserve of outraged dignity through two races, but Foster was under no such wraps. He did the old rub-in, and did it well. In addition, he became the most repellent thing known to men—the turf expert.

Helen Mary scarcely could make a casual comment without bringing on a horse lecture. Once she voiced disapproval of the way jockeys whipped their horses.

"They never call it whipping a horse," said Foster. "They call it 'Keeping him at his task.' Funny, eh?"

Helen Mary did not smile. In fact, she seemed to be developing a permanent frown. A couple of times she looked pleadingly at Freddy, and once—when Foster had gone to a mutuel window—she touched his arm and asked if they couldn't call the quarrel off.

Never, he told himself, could there be reconciliation now. Nevertheless, he halted when he found her waiting—alone—at the clubhouse exit.

"Please, Freddy," she pleaded.

"Where's Foster?" he rasped.

"I wouldn't go with him. He got nasty and I told him off."

"What do you mean?"

FOSTER GIVES UP

"Well, it was this way: He was playing what he called a system, and it didn't work very well. I told him you said only stupid people ever played systems. He said why didn't I go back to you then, and I told him I'd do just that."

Freddy beamed. "Swell! And he's definitely out with you?"

"Oh, yes. Anyway, I think he'll have to go back north. I think he used up all his money on the system."

"Huh?"

"Yes, he lost an awful lot. He was playing a thing he called doubling up. He started with $2 on the first race, and when he lost that he bet $4 on the next, and then $8 on the next and so on. And he lost them all."

"But he couldn't lose so much that way—maybe $30 or $40."

"Couldn't he? You figure it out. In eight races—just doubling up from $2—he lost $510."

"Holy smoke!" gasped Freddy.

With almost painful tenderness, he helped her into his own car. This time there was no mad dash-

She swung around, anguished and ferocious.

ing; they took quiet back roads home. After a while he pulled off to the side, halted beneath two great cocoanut palms, and slid an arm around her shoulders.

"Honey," he murmured a few minutes later, "I've been thinking. You know—about Foster—and that $510—and things. Let's quit this gambling business. Tomorrow let's go fishing."

"Let's," said Helen Mary, snuggling closer. "I'll bet you $2 I catch a bigger one than you do."

ICE FISHING

Stalking for Pickerel

In Hub—Some 950 soldiers of the First Division, U. S. Army, arrive in Boston aboard the transport Chateau Thierry, after Carribean maneuvers.

Digging

At 18 degrees above, Harry Simard gets set for a day of fishing through the ice at Lake Singletary, Sutton . . . and the first step is making a hole (above).

Now the Flag Is Set on Tilt

Bold Lensman Braves Chill For Pickerel

By HARRY SIMARD

This business of fishing through the ice for pickerel, or the species esox reticulatus, as it is known in these parts, is not to be taken lightly, and by the same token, getting pictures of the pickerel fisher stalking his prey is no mean accomplishment, if I do say so myself.

I generally spend several days getting ready to photograph the pickerel fisherman in action. The time, of course, includes getting the fisherman ready too. Then there are supplies to be laid in, and equipment—a regular shirt, unstarched, a woolen shirt, a suede jacket, and a wind breaker, preferably Byrd cloth. (Not an adv.)

CLEAR, FROSTY

On the clear frosty day when the accompanying photographs were taken, the temperature at Lake Singletary, Sutton, was exactly 18 degrees Fahrenheit at 8 a. m., our starting time.

In order to fish through the ice, one must naturally have a hole first. So we made a hole. In fact, in a moment of nostalgia for the old golfing season, we made nine holes.

Then we set up our tilts. The tilt, a word coming from the Angle-Saxon tealt, or unstable, is exactly what the word implies. It is a stick with a flag on it, rigged so that it tilts when a pickerel is hooked.

A LITTLE LONGER

To make a long story a little longer, we fished all day, until the westward shadows threatened to gather, and I tell you I was pretty tired rushing from tilt to tilt. I easily did 36 holes.

At last, success! A 19-inch esox reticulatus had taken a shiner and the hook with it! I set up my camera and popped one picture after another.

Up Pops the Flag . . . a Bite

. . . And Mr. Simard Has a 19-Inch Pickerel

Only Gal

Lieut. Mabel Brooks, nurse and only woman aboard the Chateau Thierry has only praise for the men. "They were all nice," she said, and reported that although there was no serious illness, a lot got seasick, and some of the men got sea urchin spines while swimming at Flamingo Beach.

WITH the consent of the Senate, the Administration has replaced what the late William James would have described as a "toughminded" Ambassador to the Court of St. James with a "tenderminded" one.

Joe Kennedy, who retired, took the hard course. He attempted to use his intelligence to weigh realities and to see through bandwagon thinking and propaganda.

JOSEPH KENNEDY
Not Fooled

His successor, John G. Winant, until recently director of the International Labor Office, appears to be moved by vague ideas and fantasies.

For example, in a recent speech in New York before the League of Women Voters, Mr. Winant said:

"This is a war of and for social principles. Those principles are not national, they are international. NO one of us can afford to be complacent as to the future."

As to the last sentence quoted, we heartily concur.

In this hour of decision, we Americans cannot "afford to be complacent," when represented at the center of the war by a sentimentalist.

Instead of attempting to see events clearly and report on them objectively, Mr. Winant will doubtless be somewhat blinded by his own ideology.

That his objective is to bring the New Deal to the whole world is further indicated by his choice of Ben Cohen, leading New Deal brain truster, as his counsel in London.

Citizens of free nations have plenty of reason for disliking the Nazis, but hating Hitler should not be permitted to make us unaware of the cost and the nature of war.

When Mr. Winant says that "this is a war for social principles," he is unwittingly emulating Fascist language.

JOHN G. WINANT
A "Sentimentalist"

The Nazis, for home consumption, excuse the war on the alleged holy ground that it is a battle for "the new order."

While we are eager to see the aggressors and persecutors defeated, we cannot string along with the new Ambassador's sentimental views.

We are old-fashioned enough to hold that social progress is won in the peaceful arts—through improved technology, through a better distributive system, and through a rising sense of man's obligation to man.

Mr. Winant's seductive phrasemaking recalls the style of twenty-four years ago when we entered a bloody European struggle on the glib promise that it was "a war to end wars" and "to make the world safe for democracy."

THE DRAFT LAW is making the nation health conscious. Seldom has legislation done more to focus popular attention on hygiene and sanitation.

When the statute providing for compulsory military training was enacted a few months ago, it was generally assumed that there would be a large number of rejections.

But hardly anyone thought that 32 per cent of those called for duty would be sent home by local board physicians.

Yet this is the actual percentage, and it is confirmed by Colonel Leonard G. Rountree, chief of the medical division of the Selective Service's national headquarters in Washington.

Principal cause for rejection, according to Colonel Rountree, are bad teeth.

Other reasons include maladies or infirmities associated with the heart, lungs, eyes, throat, bones and muscles.

Nor are the evils that are politely called "social diseases" lacking. According to reliable information, they account for approximately five per cent of the rejections by Selective Service doctors.

This should interest our Massachusetts Legislature, which will shortly consider a bill requiring blood tests for all persons contemplating matrimony in this State.

If a man who is afflicted with an illness which, if neglected, is almost certain to produce blindness, insanity and death is unfit for the Army, he should also be unfit for marriage.

At least the law should oblige him to delay his trip to the altar until he has obtained medical treatment and is reasonably sure that he will not transmit the infection to his children.

"HOW to charm a male" is but one of innumerable articles of similar advice that continue to clutter up the printed page. Telling a woman how to charm a man is about the same as giving a duck swimming lessons. Ability to attract a male is born in a female. What most women would probably like to know is how to get the money to obtain what they need to charm males better than other women. Anyway, this department again rises to ask how about a little advice to the men who are sorely in need of the same. Let us have some articles on "How to Handle a Woman," "How to Get Rid of a Woman and Make Her Like It," "Twelve Ways to Make a Blonde Love Honor and Obey You," etc., etc.

CONFIDENTIAL: The law allows a highway truck driver to drive only 10 hours at a time. Must then have eight hours rest before driving again. A good law, but ten hours is a long stretch to be handling one of those huge trucks. Why not a four-hour drive, then an hour rest, and then another four-hour drive? . . . The "Oomph" and "It" girl angle is being overdone by Hollywoodians. Screen needs more of the clean-cut American girl type, such as Judy Garland and Deanna Durbin.

FOR POETS ONLY: "Why not another four-line poem contest?" asks a client. Why not, sir? And a lock of whose hair would you suggest for a prize? How about a four-line poem about your town or city in the manner of that famous four-liner:

Here's to the City of Boston,
The home of the bean and the cod,
Where the Lowells talk to the Cabots
And the Cabots talk only to God.

PLEASE NOTE: Heard of a popular married couple named Constance and Ronald who are referred to as "Connie and Ronnie." Who knows a couple named Sal and Al, Joe and Flo, Lil and Bill, Rose and Mose, or May and Jay? . . . Women are "slaves to fashion" they say; but is it true? Note item stating a stylists' edict called for tailored hats in the winter but the women wouldn't buy them. "We don't care if it is winter," said they, "we want hats with flowers on them.' So the stylists had to give in . . . A bathtub elevator is a patented invention. This is designed to be an aid to people who have difficulty in getting in and out of a bathtub. I have no difficulty in that respect, but I once grasped the handle at the side of the tub and said handle broke and oh, what a fall there was then!

-:- MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, Wednesday—A few guests lunched with me yesterday, one or two afternoon visitors and an evening spent happily listening to a fine concert by the Philadelphia Orchestra. Then the night train to New York City and a series of appointments here this morning which I will tell you about tomorrow.

Days ago I promised to write a column about the miners' hospital in Mongomery, West Virginia. I hesitated to write about it until I could investigate every possible source to see whether there was something wrong with it that I had not been able to discover!

It seemed to me too good to be true, yet I failed to find that Dr. Laird himself, who is so interested in rendering a service to his patients at a minimum cost, was painting too rosy a picture or forgetting to mention some fact which would make this service impossible to duplicate.

I have grown skeptical, I suppose.

I CAN FIND no flaw, and so at last I want to tell you what has been done in Montgomery. At the same time I want to pay a tribute of admiration to Dr. Laird and his associates, for the remarkable organization and humanitarian approach to this question of hospital care.

Here in a small place in West Virginia, surrounded by a mining area which is none too prosperous—as you may see if you drive past the houses lived in by the miners—there is a hospital which is as well equipped, as attractively furnished, as airy and light and cheerful as any I have ever seen.

The nurses seem to give skilled and loving service. There is a training school for nurses, and most of the girls come from miners' families. That, perhaps, is why they know so well how to care for the men and their families, who make up the bulk of patients.

The miners receive complete hospitalization for themselves, their wives, children, and aged parents who live with them, for the sum of $1.00 per month. There is no extra charge for operations, for anesthetics or for medicine.

EVERY DETAIL is thought out and carefully planned. Every room in this hospital is not only attractive but convenient for nurse and patient. The equipment is of the best and arranged in the most convenient way for those who have to use it.

There is no skimping on wages. Everyone recieves the average for the vicinity for the type of work they are doing. Babies, old people and young people are cared for equally well.

After much questioning, the only explanation for this remarkable achievement of Dr. Laird's seems to be the great care taken to eliminate waste. One other is the preventive medical work which the graduate nurses do when employed by the coal mine owners.

MONTGOMERY PLAYS UNIQUE ROLE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—On March 7 Robert Montgomery's newest picture, "Rage in Heaven," will be released. The story was written by James Hilton, and when Montgomery read it for the first time he agreed to play the leading role. Shortly before the picture was to start, however, he indicated his displeasure—but rather than violate his contract the star accepted his fate and submitted to the camera . . . Throughout the filming Montgomery read his lines without any change of expression—unemotionally and with toneless voice . . . The Screen Actors Guild was consulted and charges of sabotage were prepared against him. But the picture had been completed, the investment already had been made, and no amount of censure could rescue the story . . . Robert Thoeren, co-author of the screen play, finally offered one suggestion, which was adopted—the insertion of a single scene, which was sufficient to assure the success of "Rage in Heaven." That scene, inserted at the beginning of the movie, shows a psychiatrist diagnosing the principal character. "There are definite symptoms of paranoia," declares the doctor concerning the character portrayed by Montgomery, "a tonelessness in his voice, a peculiar lack of emotion . . . Yes, he's insane."

The next day Silberberg was a caller at the White House. From Steve Early's office he wrote this reply to Ross: "Dear Harold: The rug in this room was ordered by Ickes, who inherited it from Albert Fall, who got it from Doheny, who got it from du Pont—for nothing."

BILL SISTROM, preparing "Little Orvie," decided he wanted a name-actor for the title role. He invited John Barrymore's former wife, Dolores Costello, to bring her seven-year-old son, John Costello Barrymore, to the studio . . . John was brought to the sets and was most observant. Sistrom showed him how movies were made, and then took him into the office. "John, would you like to be doing what those other people were doing out there?" he asked . . . The boy avoided his gaze and stared silently at the ceiling . . . "John," Sistrom continued, "wouldn't you like to act in a movie?" . . . The youngest Barrymore fidgeted, shook his head and said: "No" . . . "Why not?" asked Sistrom . . . "Because," answered the descendant of the two great screen families, "movies stink" . . . Artie Shaw, band leader, is one of the few civilians ever invited to cross San Francisco Bay and visit the Federal Penitentiary at Alcatraz. "I don't believe it," he whispered to the warden—who asked: "Why?"—and Shaw explained: "Where's John Garfield?"

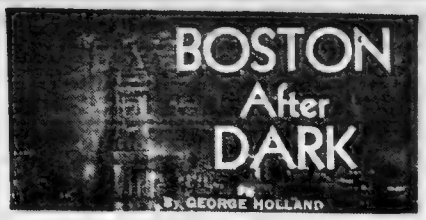
"COMRADE X," recent Clark Gable movie, concerned an American correspondent in Moscow, who tries to avoid being recognized during his escape from Russia. Gene Fowler, who wrote the screen play, suggested that the movie open with a sequence wherein the correspondent's heel print is noticed, and it reveals the trademark "Lifetime Heel" . . . Gable, however, ordered the entire scene eliminated—because this was to be the first sequence and he thought it would establish him as a heel.



THE POOH-POOHING sustained by your wide-eyed chronicler for his "night club poll" on the subject of Coach Frank Leahy, and the ribald merriment of our pish-tusher, the sometimes gallant Colonel (Dave Egan) of the Daily Record, makes our chastisement a matter of practical unanimity with the local columnar oracles of the Daily Record.

THE LEARNED COLONEL went so far as to illustrate his words with an alleged copy of these fawn-like features, an old engraving long since supposedly condemned and made originally from a picture shot by the veteran cameraman, Major Dick Sears, when Bulgaria was under Ferdinand, the schooner "Elsie" was the pride of the North American fishing waters, and "Rose Marie" was breaking records in Erie, P-A.

THE OTHER LOCAL BY-LINER of the esteemed Daily Record who slambanged your reporter was that eligible man-about-Boston, George W. Clarke . . . He went to no such lengths as Colonel Egan, and for the time, the protest: "Hark, hark, the gentle Clarke!" is perhaps enough to make him keep the peace . . . (With a threat to patrolly a few more famous quotations.)

COLONEL EGAN HOLDS with what he represents as being a widely-held popular decision that the Boston College coach did right by Boston College and the clamoring group of proletarian fans known as the "subway alumni" . . .

WE EXPRESSED NO PERSONAL opinion (nor bias), and neglected to include among our pollsters Mickey Alpert, who goes (the Colonel says) with the lease of the Cocoanut Grove and is unstacked nightly with the tables, and Ray Weeks, who, if he doesn't, should be similarly a permanent fixture of his alma mater, The Mayfair. By avoiding such partisans as Maestri Alpert and Weeks (the latter is a B. U. man and has been cheering since Notre Dame got Leahy), we thought we were maintaining the basic integrity of all polls: i. e., that the victims of intruding questions they didn't ask to hear should be persons never identifiable later by (a) the poll-taker or (b) the authorities.

BUT THE POLL SHOWED an unexpected preponderance (nine-out-of-ten) of anti-Leahyites . . . Not anti-Leahyites-as-Coach-of-the-Year, nor anti-Leahyites-as-a-great-guy-and-a-master-of-football-tactics . . . No, our poll-ees (ed. note: this does not refer to members of the B. C. line or backfield) simply expressed themselves as critical of Coach Leahy's decision to forsake the college which gave him the prime chance of his career.

BUT ALL THIS PREAMBLE leads to a report to Colonel Egan (and Mr. Clarke, our other Daily Record baiter) that an important communication has been received by this department . . . The letter: "Sir, My respect for the caliber of the thinking artillery owned by the frequenters of Boston's night clubs has not increased immeasurably because of the result of your Leahy poll . . . That would not be possible . . .

COL. DAVE EGAN

Drop Around, Colonel; We'll Slip You the Name of a Good Tonic!

"THESE GENTLEMEN and ladies could have been expected to respond as sagely and fairly as they did . . . For do not most of the Boston night clubs use the advertising columns of the Daily Record, and therefore do not their patrons largely consist of Daily Record readers? Yes . . .

"PERSONALLY, I think a contract is an instrument designed to interpret legally a meeting of minds, and should be binding . . . If you run into Mr. Clarke in your travels, will you ask him to ferret out the shortest possible route to this office—and take it? . . . As for the Colonel, we are assigning him to ping-pong in April . . . Yours, James P. Murphy . . . Managing Editor, Boston Daily Record."

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY, AND LUCKY, TOO

By Louella O. Parsons

John Carroll

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20—The happy-go-lucky John Carroll, who always has a smile on his lips and a story to tell, take Tony Martin's place in "Lady Be Good." Not because there was anything wrong with Tony, but the role seems to fit Julian La Faye (John's real moniker). Louis B. Mayer, who has an uncanny way of knowing talent when he sees it, told me nearly a year ago that John Carroll, in his estimation was the best find M-G-M had had in a long time. At that time John had only played in Monogram pictures and I was a bit surprised at the statement. Later, when I saw John in M-G-M pictures I knew what L. B. meant.

DOROTHY LAMOUR

John will get a break as the radio crooner in "Lady Be Good" and he'll have a chance to sing. Arthur Freed, who is a composer himself, will get the most out of every tune in "Lady Be Good." There will be some Gershwin tunes as well as "The Last Time I Saw Paris" the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein II song. Jean of course will be teamed opposite with Robert Young. Lionel Barrymore, Eleanor Powell and Ann Sothern.

• • •

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Dorothy Lamour is wearing Greg Bautzer's mother's diamond engagement ring, but both deny it means an engagement. Wayne Morris has sent in his questionnaire to the draft board and is hoping he will be called soon. Those who have met Edgar Bergen's mother at his home and everybody who has been there has will be sorry to hear of her illness.

Leroy and Danny Danker, soap magnate, train to New York for a holiday and business trip; Olympe Bradna has set May 7 for her marriage to Douglas Wilhoit; Perc Westmore has written an article on glamorizing men for a national magazine and 'tis said it will stir quite a commotion when it is published.

Errol Flynn arrived today by boat and Lili Damita was at the dock to greet him; George Sanders denies the rumor that he and Elsie Lawson are secretly wed; Tilly Losch is returning to London in three weeks to be with her husband, Lord Carnavan and her friends are applauding her decision.

I HEAR from an authentic source that George Bernard Shaw, the 81-year-old pink-cheeked cherub, has written an original screen play with a Panama-South American background for Gabriel Pascal. This may sound fantastic to the Shaw fans who know of George Bernard's grand contempt for anything to do with Hollywood (and this picture, I understand is to be produced in Hollywood).

But when you remember that Shaw permitted Pascal to produce "Pygmalion" (Academy prize winner) and "Major Barbara" (yet to be released) you know that Pascal would be more likely to get Shaw to write an original than anyone else.

• • •

LONG BEFORE "Lady in the Dark," the sensational Gertie Lawrence play was produced on Broadway, Ernst Lubitsch directed and produced a story on the same theme that of a psychiatrist. In fact, that's the story in "That Uncertain Feeling," starring Merle Oberon and Melvyn Douglas, and 'tis whispered it is a riotous comedy, with Merle giving really a delightful performance.

Speaking of Ernst, he has one more picture to make for Sol Lesser at United Artists and then there will be a friendly parting. I hear tell that Ernst, who gave Garbo her first comedy in "Ninotchka"—and persuaded her to smile in a movie, will return to M-G-M as a director.

• • •

I HAD THE SAME FEELING hearing Kathryn Grayson sing in "Andy Hardy's Private Secretary"—and seeing her fresh, young performance, that came to me the first time I saw and heard Deanna Durbin in "Three Smart Girls." She's sweet and young—just as Deanna was and is, and hers is also a God-given voice.

So wise of M-G-M to start her out, too, in this particular Andy Hardy movie, for her songs come so naturally and easily. She still has a few camera tricks to learn, but when you think that this was her very first picture and that the child is only 18, she did remarkably well.

New British Minister in Hub Visit

Great Britain's darkest hour in the war todate came early last October when the Suez canal appeared doomed before the advancing Italian desert army in Africa, Sir Gerald Campbell, newly appointed British minister to the United States, disclosed today.

Sir Gerald, who will assist Lord Halifax in diplomatic work in Washington, arrived here with Lady Campbell for an overnight visit. They will meet Governor Saltonstall and Mayor Tobin and be guests at tonight's British War Relief Society's ball in the Copley-Plaza.

The threat to Britain's life line was revealed to Sir Gerald in a wire from London advising him to stress the Italian advance on the Suez canal in his Canadian broadcast of last Oct. 27, the former British high commissioner in Ottawa said.

"But," he said today with a smile, "a month later the Italians were fleeing from Sidi Barani before Gen. Wavell and the British expeditionary force."

The diplomat termed this the second failure by the Axis to crush Britain with lightning thrusts. He said Axis plans called for a simultaneous invasion of Britain by Germany and seizure of the Suez canal by Italy. The second plan called for Italian sweeping through Africa and meeting a Nazi invasion southward through the Balkans.

Although he has not been in England since 1936, Sir Gerald said he has been kept informed on the new military tactics to withstand invasion.

The RAF has discovered that by shooting down the leader of a Nazi air squadron the rest of the flight "turns tail," Sir Campbell said. He predicted the arms will work out similar tactics to thwart land forces.

The presentation of 50 gifts to lucky number holders will bring to a climax the all-star Dwight Deere Wiman midnight show in the grand ball room of the Copley-Plaza.

Dud Kills Corporal On Firing Range

FT. BRAGG, N. C., Feb. 20 (AP)—Corp. Chester A. Haines, 24, of Masontown, Pa., a member of Battery A, 36th Field Artillery, was wounded fatally yesterday on the firing range here.

Authorities announced today that Haines and others were fighting a brush fire when a dud under a burning log exploded from the heat.

Leaking Gas Fells 16 Girls in Detroit

DETROIT, Feb. 20 (INS)—Sixteen girl employes of the Webster Cigar Co. were overcome by gas today soon after they reported for work. Some were taken to a hospital while firemen labored over others with pulmotors.

Approximately 100 other girls were either unaffected or only slightly bothered by the gas which seeped into the factory from a defective pipe.

HUB CIVILIAN DEFENSE REGISTRATION BLANKS IN MAILS

Seeking volunteers for non-military duty in any national emergency, the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety mailed hundreds of registration blanks today to local civilian defense chairmen.

The blanks asked the occupation and experience of men and women willing to aid in the organized defense of the State's homes and vital industries, health and communications. Among questions were: have had any police or fire experience, any intelligence service experience.

The committee will ask the volunteers to check their experience in more than 60 vocations for possible use in an emergency, including amateur radio operator, ambulance driver, aviation mechanic, gunsmith, homing-pigeon fancier, map-maker, photographer, public entertainer, ship's pilot and X-ray operator.

Quarantine Ties Up 1000 at Fort Devens

While 1000 soldiers at Fort Devens faced the gloomy prospect of a quarantine, hundreds of others gayly left the military fort today in Army trucks to extend a welcome to the delayed transport Chateau Thierry.

The transport, carrying the remainder of the First Division men from Caribbean Sea maneuvers, was due at the Army Base in South Boston about 10 a. m.

As in the welcome extended the troopers arriving previously on the transport General Hunter Liggett, high ranking officers were on hand, while trucks were lined against the waterfront ready to whisk the returning 1200 soldiers to Devens.

SCARLET FEVER SCARE

An official announcement said that a mild wave of scarlet fever has been noticed in the camp and that a quarantine has been placed against men who live in the barracks of the 15th Medical Corps, the 26th Infantry and at Co. B, Headquarters detachment at recruit reception center.

These men will not be allowed to leave the fort until the situation is definitely controlled, and thus will be deprived of the week-end holiday.

At Boston, Worcester and Springfield, Army physicians resumed the task of examining selectees in the fourth call, while six New England women prepared to take up their duties as Army hostesses at Fort Devens and Camp Edwards.

An Army spokesman, while admitting that all are personable and charming, said that the hostesses, ranging in age from 29 to 40, were not chosen on the basis of pulchritude, but on more important considerations of experience for the work, background, character and personality.

Senior hostess at Camp Edwards will be Miss Katherine Kendall, Bay View ave., East Greenwich, R. I. Senior hostess at Camp Devens will be Mrs. Marion Tirrell Wyman of Massachusetts ave., Cambridge.

Mrs. Alma de Coen of Everett st., Cambridge, and Miss Dorothy Stevens of Minot st., Neponset, have been chosen junior hostesses at Camp Edwards. Mrs. Ruth Emmons Turner of Stevens st., Lowell, and Miss Hanna T. Meegan of Sommer st., Stoneham, will be junior hostesses at Ft. Devens.

HANNA T. MEEGAN
Junior Hostess

Tall and slender, with reddish-brown hair and blue eyes, Miss Dorothy Stevens, 23, of Neponset, has had much musical training for her new work. She has traveled widely and frequently in Europe, speaks fluent German and French and understands such languages as Egyptian, Arabic, Norwegian, Swedish and Italian.

Only recently returned from London, where she huddled in shelters during the blitzkrieg, Miss Stevens had produced two successful plays there and had been a supervising hostess of a chain of tea shops throughout Great Britain. She has been recently employed as a hostess at the Parker House.

SON IN ARMY

Mrs. Alma De Coen, 40, of Cambridge, is a tall and slender brunette, a native of Kentucky and the widow of Maj. Emile G. De Coen of Battery E., 5th. Field Artillery, 1st Division, a winner of the Croix de Guerre during service in France. She is the mother of two children.

Mrs. Marion Wyman, 50, of Cambridge, has a son, Melvin Wyman, now a second lieutenant with the air corps in Balboa, Canal Zone. She has a musical and theatrical background and for many years managed her own school of music, and has appeared as a concert pianist and singer. She has had long experience in hotel management.

Miss Hanna Meegan, 29, of Stoneham is a willowy brunette and already has two brothers in the Army. She is a violinist who has played commendably in public and has been employed as hostess at well-known Boston and New York restaurants and in a cafe at the World's Fair.

She was valedictorian of St. Patrick's high school in Stoneham.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

HOW SHOULD young folks treat old folks? What's a good son . . . a good daughter? Has a working girl of 21 a right to have and express her own opinions? Or should she agree with everything her mother thinks and says, even though her mother has had no experience with our modern American world?

Amy's asking. It's Amy's dad who is handing down the uncomplimentary verdict. And the red hot pros and cons of that argument are being echoed in thousands of homes where rebellious youngsters are clashing with insulted oldsters who "can't understand what's come over this outrageous, disrespectful younger generation."

But is it necessarily an "outrageous" generation because it won't accept, without question, all parental notions, prejudices and dictums, no matter how cockeyed they may be?

Whereupon, at least 193,458 Peeved Papas and Mad Mamas will indignantly demand to know what I mean by "cockeyed"? How dare I apply such a word to a dear, loving mother . . . a devoted, hard-working father?

BUT WHY NOT? Is a mother's love or a father's devotion any guarantee of their intelligence? Is a mother equipped to solve the problems of a working girl's life if she, herself has never worked a day outside the home, has made no effort to keep up with current topics . . . is, in point of worldly experience, as ignorant as her own six-months-old baby?

Why shouldn't such a mother's notions be cockeyed? How can they help but be?

"But her daughter should love, respect and be grateful for all she's done for her!"

She certainly should. But must she prove that love and respect by meekly submitting to unreasonable orders . . . by pretending to admire opinions which are obviously absurd?

CANNOT SHE BE LOVING, RESPECTFUL AND GRATEFUL AND YET TREAT MOTHER AS A HUMAN BEING . . . DISCUSSING, ARGUING, EVEN DIFFERING WITH HER AS SHE WOULD WITH ANY OTHER PERSON?

ISN'T SUCH FRANKNESS—PROVIDED IT BE GOOD NATURED—A GREATER PROOF OF LOVE, A MORE SINCERE SIGN OF RESPECT THAN FALSE FLATTERY, RESENTFUL COMPLIANCE?

AND SHOULDN'T A REAL MOTHER DESIRE IT?

AGAIN, it's Amy talking:

"I believe in the Fourth Commandment," she says, "but I don't believe in blind obedience. I believe that a child, especially a grown one, has a right to his own opinions, his own likes and dislikes, and that fair parents ought to recognize that right."

But to Amy's dad, these words are blasphemy.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, talking that way to your mother!" he thunders. "Whatever she says ought to be holy to you—like a prayer. You ought to try to agree with her always; and even if you can't, you shouldn't say so!"

But Amy cries:

"I'm not a hypocrite. I love Mama, but I won't pretend to agree with anyone when I don't and why should she expect me to?"

Mother sniffles. And Amy blazes. And Dad thunders on and on.

So what? Are or aren't mothers people . . . and should or shouldn't they be "treated regular?" And is the daughter who treats her mother that way a real friend—or an unnatural monster?

Tropical Skies Still Lure Boston Socialites to Florida Resorts

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Adams of Boston are enjoying pleasure cruising in Florida waters aboard the yacht Radiance. Recently they docked at Sea Crest Manor Yacht Club in Hollywood, Fla., to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French of Brookline, who are guests at Sea Crest.

• • •

Recent arrivals at this picturesque resort include Mrs. Malcolm Morse of Newton Center, Miss Doris Tracy of Newton and Mr. and Mrs. William Keane with their young son, Billie, of Newton Center. Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Cousens of Southbridge entertained at a large dinner party at the Manor for Mr. and Mrs. French and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dooley of Boston.

• • •

Miss Grace Tichnor of Commonwealth ave. and Miss Grace Reed of Beacon st. are spending a few days at the Henry Hudson Hotel in New York.

• • •

Mrs. Joseph F. Vaas of Newton Center announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary Vaas, to George J. Pink of Worcester. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Emmanuel College and belongs to Kappa Gamma Pi. The wedding is planned for Sept. 1st.

Home and Kitchen

By MARTHA LEE

ONE OF THE RED LETTER DAYS of this month is Feb. 22, Washington's Birthday. Because of its particular significance this year, many birthday dinners are being planned.

Baked ham is a simple yet tastefully appropriate suggestion for the holiday dinner. If there will be eight or less people, a half ham such as the one shown in the picture may be preferred; but before purchasing anticipate the possible future uses of left-over ham as a whole ham is always a thrifty buy. It saves both time and money.

HONEY-BAKED HAM

Smoked whole or half ham
Maraschino cherries
1 cup strained honey

Place whole or half ham fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Make an incision and insert meat thermometer so that the center of the bulb reaches the center of the largest muscle. Be sure that the bulb does not rest on either fat or bone. Do not cover and do not add water. Place in a slow oven (300 deg. F.) and bake until done. Smoked ham is done when the meat thermometer register 170 deg. F. Allow about twenty-five minutes per pound for baking a whole ham and about thirty minutes per pound for a half ham. Many of the hams now on the market are done at an internal temperature lower than 170 deg. and require about one-fourth less cooking time than given above. Cooking directions are enclosed with these hams and should be followed.

Just before the ham is done, remove it from the oven and take off the rind, if this was not already done when the ham was received from the market. Pour honey over the ham and return it to the oven to finish baking and to glaze; garnish with cherries.

ACCOMPANIMENTS

The many American legends and anecdotes about George Washington have given us symbolic associations with his name. Cherry pies are inevitable on his birthday and for a new note, hatchets cut from potato slices and fried in deep fat, add a festive touch to the ham itself.

Halves of blue damson plums piled with cream cheese and sprinkled with chopped red maraschino cherries make a pretty patriotic salad when served in groups of three on nests of curly endive or lettuce.

Here is a complete menu for a birthday dinner that can be served as a dinner or a buffet supper, as preferred:

FOR WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Chilled Tomato Juice
Celery Radishes
Honey-Baked Ham
Potato Hatchets Escalloped Corn
Patriotic Salad
Butterhorn Rolls Grape Jelly
Individual Cherry Pies
Coffee

BUTTERHORN ROLLS

1 cup milk
⅓ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 cake compressed yeast
3 beaten eggs
4½ cups flour

Scald milk; add shortening, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm, add crumbled yeast and stir until softened. Add eggs, then flour; mix to smooth, soft dough. Knead lightly on floured surface. Place dough in greased bowl; cover and let rise in warm place (82 deg.) until at least double in bulk. Divide dough in three; roll each third on lightly floured surface to 9-inch circle. Cut each in 12 to 16 wedge shaped pieces; roll each wedge, starting with wide end and rolling to center. Arrange in greased baking pan and brush with melted fat or salad oil. Cover and let rise until very light. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. to 425 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Makes three dozen rolls.

The color scheme for the table suggests one of green and white and blue. The foods suggested accent the theme without making too obvious an attempt to do so.

APPROPRIATE for Washington's Birthday dinner is a whole or half baked ham, glazed in honey and garnished with maraschino cherries.

You Can Be Beautiful

A Skin Problem Solved!

By ARLINE GOULD

PRE-LENTEN partying, and all the late hours, rich foods, and smoke-laden air that delight the gadabout heart, are fine for gum . . . and rumors to beauty.

Cosmetics cannot cover the resultant blemished skin . . . makeup refuses to cling . . . and all sorts of minor eruptions and irritations persist . . . what to do?

To venture abroad with a countenance bereft of all makeup and daubed with gooey ointments is out of the question . . . and practically no one can withdraw from the public gaze long enough to repair the offending epidermis. So here's a neat trick to solve these multitudinous problems . . . and to head you straight on the road to a validity flawless complexion.

It's all in a little bottle labelled with the formula number of the preparation . . . all very scientific . . . the contents of the bottle, however, how to the eternal quest for beauty as well as efficiency . . . all for a mere dollar bill!

The medicated lotion has suspended in it a silky powder . . . shake well before applying to your freshly-cleansed face . . . and there you have a powder base par excellence . . . your face emerges baby-smooth, with a gossamer, mat finish that successfully camouflages the offending blemishes.

The best news last, however . . . this liquid heals your irritated skin, banishes blackhead, surface pimples and excessive oiliness . . . even as it "holds" a perfect makeup throughout the longest day!

So while this bottled artful deceiver gives you a smooth, glowing complexion to delight the beholding eye . . . underneath . . . it is imparting a new radiance to that blotched, blemished skin with its eruptions and enlarged pores . . . that after using the lotion . . . you may have as truly lovely a skin . . . as it appears that you already possess! Neat, what?

This is the day to embark on that new adventure in loveliness . . . that your satin cheek may effectively dim the competition . . . and your reborn complexion rivet all eyes to your youthful, healthful facial glow.

To learn where this eruption-router may be bought for only a dollar, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY is marked with a big red circle on the social calendars of Jean Richmond's many friends, for that is the date of her marriage to Henry S. Stone of Boston.

Jean and Henry will plight their troth on the holiday afternoon at a fashionable wedding in St. Michael's Church, Milton, with a reception at the lovely rambling white home of Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Richmond . . .

Busy with last minute fittings of their gowns and a whirl of pre-nuptial partying are the girls who will attend Jean on her wedding day . . . They are her sister, Mrs. Robert W. Ladd of Dover; her cousin, Josefa Richmond of Milton, and Henry's sister, Katharine, of New York . . . Jean's little cousins, Peggy Byers and Jennifer Clarke, will be flower girls . . .

The bridegroom's father, Edward C. Stone, will be best man, and the large staff of ushers will include Richard Burnes of Framingham, John Dwinell of Brookline, Nathanael Davis of Marstons Mills, Robert Scott of Tilton, N. H., Joseph Ayers, Easton, Pa., John Trainer, Mt. Kisco, N. Y., Charles Andrews, Cazenovia, N. Y., and Carleton Richmond, Jr., brother of the bride.

Jean, a graduate of Westover, made her debut in 1936 and belongs to the Junior League and Vincent Club . . . The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Stone of Beacon st. and Oyster Harbors, graduated from Harvard in 1938 and is a member of D. U., Hasty Pudding and the Harvard Club of New York.

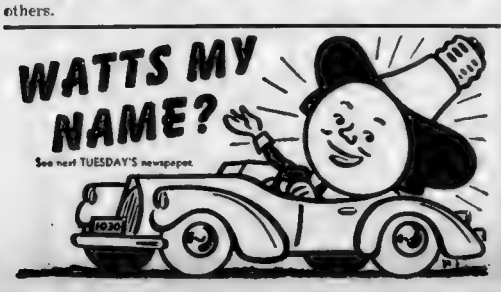
Preview of the Easter Fashions

THE WOMEN'S CITY CLUB will resemble a setting for the spring flower show on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 27, when members gather for an afternoon bridge party and preview of Easter Parade fashions . . .

The party, staged for the benefit of the club's social security budget for employes, is being arranged by Mrs. Oliver Andrews, Mrs. Alexander Steinert and a number of other hard working members . . .

Mrs. David Edwards is planning artistic flower decorations with the aid of Mrs. Robert Cushman, Mrs. Charles Grover, Miss Rebekah Hobbs, Mrs. Harold Pratt and Miss Lavinia Sabine . . .

Mrs. Phister Cowin is serving as ticket chairman, and others helping with the various duties of assembling a bevy of models, prizes, etc., are Mrs. Edward P. Brown, Mrs. Grafton S. Kennedy, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Miss Dorothy B. Seccomb, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. George Frost, Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson, Mrs. David Howie, Mrs. John McKey, Mrs. Edwin F. Melvin, Mrs. Walter M. Pratt, Mrs. Lorenz Muther, Mrs. George L. Tobey and others.



Dinner Party's Honor Guest

Debutante Margaret MacKellar, house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson, will be guest of honor at a dinner party this evening before the British War Relief Ball. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William MacKellar of the University of Virginia.

On Honeymoon

Naomi Clary Recent Bride

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Clary of Boston and New York announce the marriage of their daughter—Naomi Jeanne Clary to Cecil H. Smith, Jr., of Washington, D. C., and Illinois. The ceremony took place in the First Church of Christ, Springfield, Mass., Feb. 16, followed by a dinner party at the Hotel Statler.

The bride attended Medford High School and Secretarial School in Cambridge. The groom was graduated from George Washington University, attended Harvard Law School and is in his senior year at Boston University of Law.

WINS HIGH HONORS

Miss Mary D. Jay, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Henry D. Jay of Wadsworth House, Harvard University, attained high scholastic honors at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., with her appointment this week to the dean's honor list. Miss Jay is also prominent in dramatics, having appeared in major productions under the direction of Miss Maude Adams, famous actress who heads the Stephens drama department.

MAXWELL HOUSE

IS NOW 55% RICHER

IN EXTRA-FLAVOR COFFEES!

To give you a better cup of coffee, at no extra cost

TO every one who loves good coffee—here's great news! For now, in this wonderfully delicious new Maxwell House, you get a blend that is 55% richer in choice, extra-flavor coffees . . . premium coffees from the far highlands of Central and South America.

Each of these choice, extra-flavor coffees adds its own special flavor, body, or fragrance. Naturally, such superb coffees have always been limited in availability. But our buyers are now able to obtain the great quantities we need for Maxwell House. And today—Maxwell House is more popular than ever!

Ever since it was first introduced to the Old South at the famous old Maxwell House in Nashville, this famous blend has been a luxury coffee prized by millions.

And today, you get this marvelously enriched new Maxwell House Coffee at a price the most modest budget can afford.

It is roasted by the "Radiant Roast" process . . . packed in the Vita-Fresh vacuum tin . . . a Maxwell House that's 55% richer in extra-flavor coffees! Join the millions who are already enjoying this delicious new Maxwell House.

A Product of General Foods

ANNOUNCEMENTS

1—Legal

LICENSING BOARD for the City of Boston. Application No. 1614, February 20, 1941.—Notice is hereby given, under Chapter 138 of the General Laws, that Meyer Greenberg, as Meyer's Cash Market, has applied for a license to sell alcoholic beverages of the following kind: Malt only, at a Retail Package Goods Store, at 107 Dana Avenue and side entrance on Water Street for stock only, Hyde Park District in said Boston, in one room, first floor; rear room and cellar for stock only of said building. MARVE DRISCOLL, EDWARD M. RICHARDSON, WALTER R. MEINS, Licensing Board. f20

2—Bids and Proposals

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Metropolitan District Commission, Water Division. Furnishing and Laying of Water Pipes. (W.P.A. Project W.D.-49-2).—Sealed proposals for furnishing and laying in the Town of Arlington, about 4800 linear feet of steel water pipes, 24 inches inside diameter, together with the necessary appurtenances and connections, addressed to the Metropolitan District Commission and endorsed "Proposal for Contract No. 141, Water Division," will be received at the office of the Commission, 20 Somerset Street, Boston, Massachusetts, until 1 o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time, of Thursday, the thirteenth day of March, 1941, and at that place and time will be publicly opened and read. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check or bid bond for five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), payable to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Surety acceptable to the Commission and equal to the amount of the proposal, will be required for the faithful performance of the contract. The wages paid to labor employed by the Contractor on the work shall be not less than the wages determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries in accordance with Chapter 461, Massachusetts Acts of 1935, and set forth in the schedule of minimum wages, copies of which may be obtained from the office of the Commission. Sworn copies of all pay rolls for the work performed by the Contractor shall be filed with the Commission as the work progresses. Plans and a pamphlet containing additional information for bidders, forms of proposal, contract, specifications and supplemental general conditions, may be obtained of Samuel E. Killam, Director and Chief Engineer of the Water Division. A deposit of $5.00 will be required for the plans and pamphlet, and if the plans are returned with a bid or the plans and pamphlet are returned before the bids are opened, the deposit will be refunded; otherwise it shall be forfeited. The printed form must be used in making a proposal. The Commission reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to accept the proposal deemed best for the Commonwealth. EUGENE C. HULTMAN, Commissioner. f20

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

CLEARWATER BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20 — Florida has a brand new game for the thousands of New Englanders who gather at yacht clubs and other social centers during the summer months. The new pastime will receive the chill from the golf clubs which have been having their share of headaches in recent years with horse racing and other sports diversions.

The new game is known as golf-croquet and is particularly popular with those yachtsmen who would not feel comfortable if they were to venture off land.

I found out about the new pastime at the swanky Carlouel Yacht Club. Frank W. Brown of Rome, N. Y., who used to be Elmer Ward's golfing partner, insisted that my trip to the West Coast would not be complete unless I took a peek at golf-croquet. My idea about anything pertaining to croquet was a peaceful scene at some English country club where the members took an occasional whack at a croquet ball between sips of tea.

While there is a touch of English atmosphere to golf-croquet, it has been Americanized to a point where it is sweeping to the heights of popularity in Florida. They are now building courts for golf-croquet faster than they did for miniature golf.

It was Sheldon Fairbanks who first introduced miniature golf to New England after it had gone over in a large way in Florida. Miniature golf is only an imitation of the real thing, and so it didn't last.

Golf-croquet is croquet with changes to make the scoring like golf, and give the game the action that is necessary to have it appeal to Americans. There isn't a chance for any sleepy sport to be accepted in this country.

THE GOLF-CROQUET court was situated on the shores of Clearwater Bay. The warm Florida sun beat down on the water, and silver rays shot in the direction of the green lawn. Every blade of grass in the lawn was in the proper position to add to the exactness of things. Any New England golf club would have gladly accepted this lawn for one of its greens.

Frank Brown suggested that for me to get the best idea of the game I should play it. As a result, I was soon playing golf-croquet paired with Edward C. Kuhn of Clearwater against Brown and Frederick C. Ogden of New Jersey. Ogden told me he had played golf for years, but that he now devotes most of his spare time to playing golf-croquet.

"In croquet," said Ogden, "one does not get action. A player may put the ball through all of the wickets while you stand by. In golf-croquet every hole is played separately as in golf. If you win the first hole you are one up, and if you take the second hole you are two up. Just like golf. When you have a partner you get the benefit of his good shots as in golf."

There are four balls used. They are colored red, blue, yellow and black.

I broke away fast from the barrier, and in two shots was through the first wicket which put the Kuhn-Mr. Boston combination out front by a score of one up.

That was my final surge. I was fortunate to have Mr. Kuhn as a partner. He is one of the greatest golf-croquet players in Florida, and due to his efforts we were even when the final wicket had been shot through. The winner is then decided by shooting at a peg that

BEES VANGUARD LEAVES FOR SAN ANTONIO CAMP

By BILL GRIMES

The vanguard of the Bees, consisting of four players, six scribes, equal number of royal rooters, Road Secretary "Duffy" Lewis and Jack Onslow, manager of the Hartford club, will be aboard the Southwestern Limited when it leaves for San Antonio late this afternoon

Pres. Bob Quinn has planned to start for the Lone Star State today but he has been obliged to postpone his departure in order to receive further treatments to his injured knee.

Arthur Johnson, who now resides in Arlington but who started his baseball career while pitching for Winchester High School, Alva Javery, formerly of North Oxford but now a citizen of Worcester, George Barnicle, of Fitchburg, and Stan "Polo" Andrews, the pride of Lynn, comprise the baseball talent.

GREAT SEASON AT HARTFORD

Johnson, Javery, Barnicle and Andrews all went South with the Bees last spring, Andrews is the veteran of the ball players. He has been going to Bees' spring training camp since the last season that Bill McKechnie managed the club.

When the Bees wound up their spring training a year ago, Manager Casey Stengel sent Art Johnson to Hartford and George Barnicle to the Syracuse Club of the International League. He retained Al Javery and "Polo" Andrews.

Johnson had a fine season under "Handsome Jack" Onslow at Hartford and Casey believes that the big southpaw is ready for National League competition.

RUCIDL TOINS AT ALBANY

A year ago, Barnicle was handicapped by a sore arm and was unable to live up to expectations. He reports that his salary whip is O. K. and predicts that he'll make the grade this season. Javery showed promise a year ago and should be a consistent winner during the coming campaign.

Included in the Bees' party are Park Commissioner William P. Long and Mrs. Long, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Howard, Dr. Thomas F. Broderick and Leopold M. Goulston, vice-president of the club.

When the Southwestern Limited pulls into Albany, N. Y. late tonight, Joe Rucidlo, the giant right hand pitcher, up from Hartford, will check in and tomorrow Frank Lamanna and Sig Broskie will join the party at Cleveland.

BROSKIE MAY WIN BERTH

Rucidlo looked very good last spring at Bradenton but was farmed out to Hartford to get more experience.

Until illness forced him out of action, Rucidlo was a consistent winner under Jack Onslow.

Lamanna was with Hartford last year and played a major role in the House of Onslow getting into the finals of the Eastern League playoffs.

Both Rucidlo and Lamanna have better than an even chance of staying with the Stengelese during the coming season.

Broskie caught for the Bees' farm club at York, Pa., in the Inter - State League and was brought up late last season for a look see. He's a good looking catcher with plenty of hustle and may win a berth for himself during the sojourn in Texas.

ARRIVED ON SATURDAY

When the Boston delegation reaches St. Louis tomorrow afternoon, Bob Coen in who manages the Evansville club of the Three Eye League will have rounded up Nick Strincevich, Phil Masi, Dick Errickson, Al Piechota and Tom Earley.

Errickson is trekking to the Mound City from his home at Vineland, N. J., while Masi, Piechota and Earley are scheduled to leave Chicago tomorrow morning.

Earley, who is a product of Mission Hill, Roxbury, has been visiting friends in St. Louis during while Masi, Piechota are residents of the Windy City.

The Bees' party is due to arrive in St. Louis at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon and after a thirty minute lay over will pull out for San Antonio which is approximately a 24 hour ride from the Mound City.

Quinn Stays Home—Is Sale of Bees Near?

Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Bees, is in "no position" to talk about the status of negotiations for the purchase of the Bees, but it is significant that "pressure of business" keeps him in Boston today as his club embarks for pre-season training at San Antonio, Tex.

"It's still up in the air," said the 71-year-old keeper of the Bees in response to a query about progress of plans for purchase of the club's controlling stock by a syndicate of several men.

"Just now I'm in no position to talk about it. It's something that could happen tomorrow and then again it might take a month or two to make the necessary arrangements."

ICE-CAPADES' RETURN SHOW THRILLS FANS

Displaying more precision and brilliancy than its premiere a few months ago, the Ice-Capades returned to Boston for a four-day en gagement at the Garden before 8500 spectators which thrilled to the dazzling performances of its stars.

Lois Dworshak practically stole the show with a fast stepping jitterbug number worthy of the real rug cutters, and answered six calls from the enthusiastic crowd. In this number she was assisted by the entire chorus of boys and girls dressed in very gay outfits.

Marion "Red" McCarthy, who gives the audience a spectacular thrill with his Chinese God number, painted as a shimmering gold god, performed despite an injured leg, which, however, did not slow him in the least.

BELITA'S BALLET CLICKS

The beautiful blonde Belita was again her charming self with her ballet numbers as was the gorgeous Vera Hruba with her dance called Candle Light. Both these lovely ladies were called back time and again for encores.

A new comedy act was added to the show since leaving Boston on its tour through the country that of Joe Jackson, Jr., who gave one of the best pantomime acts ever seen on any rink. He brought roar after roar of laughter from the huge crowd with his funny antics on his trick bike.

Boston's own Al Surette again proved a popular comedian with his clownish Straw Man, he performed as if he was made of rubber and springs.

AMERICAN WAY

Other comedy acts which the crowd loved were the Jackson and Lyman waltz and the famous First Lesson by Eric Waite.

The rink of the ice was painted in a beautiful and patriotic motif. In the center was a huge blue star surrounded by a number of smaller red stars with the greater part of the ice a milky white, giving a real American effect.

This made the grand finale of the show a more thrilling spectacle as the boys and girls and the stars of the Ice-Capades paraded in beautiful red, white and blue cowboy and cowgal outfits. As a background to this number, the good looking George Byron sang the stirring "I Hear America Sing."

Leahy Visits B. C. Today

Notre Dame's new head coach, Francis William Leahy, back in town after his momentous signing at South Bend last week-end, plans to visit his friends at Boston College today.

Specifically, the new head coach of the famous South Bend Irish was to confer with John P. Curley and Rev. Maurice V. Duffey, S. J., Boston College A. A. heads. Leahy expected to bid in robe of the championship Sugar Bowl squad a final adieu.

The former Boston College coach made no attempt to contact any potential successor for his former job at Boston College during his Western invasion.

Asked if he had any suggestions on the subject, Leahy replied "I haven't given the situation any serious thought. At present I have no recommendation. I'll welcome the chance to cooperate if the Boston College authorities seek my aid. Boston College was always most cooperative with me."

WON'T STAND IN WAY

When questioned about the status of his assistants and asked if he would stand in their way should any of them be asked to remain at Boston College Leahy said:

"None of the assistant coaches have signed Notre Dame contracts. If Boston College is interested in choosing a head coach from among the trio (Keever, McArdle, John Druze) I certainly won't stand in the way."

It's a known fact, however, that McKeever, the most likely to be approached if the B. C. A. A. wants one of Leahy's assistants, is determined to follow the "new Knute Rockne" to Notre Dame. Besides his great affection for Frank, blond and good looking Eddie, feels that he is not yet quite ready to test his head coaching wings.

The new Notre Dame coach will return to South Bend, March 3 where spring practice at Notre Dame will start March 10.

WEEDING APPLICANTS

Meanwhile the business of selecting the new Boston College coach inches its way toward solution.

Graduate Manager Curley and Father Dullea, the former Boston College grid captain turned Faculty Moderator of Athletics have been keeping pace with the daily flood of applicants. Within a few days a meeting of the Graduate Board will be held. The applicants will be weeded out, former Coach Leahy's suggestions—if any—will be considered, and shortly thereafter the headlines will scream the name of the new mentor of Boston College.

Brown Frosh Clip Swim Marks

MIDDLETOWN, R. I., Feb. 20 (AP) Brown's freshmen swimmers broke the national 220-yard relay record for 20-yard pools here in a dual meet with St. George's School, negotiating the distance in 3 minutes 42 seconds. The time was 2 6-10 seconds off the mark set last year by the Stanford freshmen. Tim Joyner, Murray Berns, Joe Capouch and Phil Carson comprised the quartet. Brown won the meet, 36 to 21.

Dot Leonard Defends Title

Dorothy Leonard of the Worcester Swimming Association will fill the role of defending champion Saturday night at the Boston Y. M. C. A. pool when the Boston Swimming Association holds its 20th annual indoor meet. The Worcester girl who formerly held the national indoor 220 yard free style championship, will seek to retain her N. E. Senior furlong crown.

The chief opposition for Miss Leonard, in that Doris Brennan of Olneyville is not competing this season, is expected to come from Edna Soltysiak of Olneyville. Another who will be in the running for honors will be June Costello, teammate of Miss Leonard, with Helen Carroll of the B. S. A. also seeking a place medal in the final.

BRUINS FACE DROP TO 2D AS LEAFS PLAY

Undefeated in 22 starts our league leading Bruins may awaken tomorrow morning to find themselves in second place.

Those flying Maple Leafs who are still in hot pursuit of the Rossmen are only a point out of first place and they tangle with Les Canadiens at home tonight while the B's are resting.

If the Leafs tie the Canadiens they move into a deadlock and a win over the Montreal team gives Col. Connie Smythe undisputed possession of first place. This news, though, failed to alarm Manager Art Ross in the least.

SCHEDULE FAVORS BRUINS

"After all," chirped Art, "we both play 48 games and in the remaining scheduled tilts, we tangle with Toronto in two more games, so I'm not going to worry about them tying us now or even going a point ahead.

"My concern will be the standings on March 18 when we wind up with Detriot. At that time I intend seeing the Bruins right back on top there."

Art then took his schedule off the wall and after close examination came up with the news that the remaining games favor the Bruins more than the Leafs.

Ross pointed out that the Bruins had six of their remaining 10 games at home while Toronto would play six of their 11 on the road. Then, too, the Bruins would be well rested for the dash down the home stretch according to the B's vice-president.

TAKING THINGS EASY

"We were a pretty tired outfit Tuesday," said Ross. "After all that was our sixth game in 11 days which is a tough assignment in any league. The squad was just about played out in that overtime against the Leafs and it's not hard to see why.

"Because of this, I'm giving them all a well earned rest. There will be a meeting this afternoon at the Garden to discuss things in general and check our plans for the future. All formal practice for the coming game with the Americans Sunday is out. The only work carded is a light skating program for Saturday just to limber up the men," concluded Ross.

ODDS AND ENDS

It's beginning to look as though tickets for the Rangers game next Tuesday will be another sellout and ducats had better be purchased early . . . most of the Bruins spent a good part of yesterday in bed resting—the majority of them needed it.

Oddly enough the undefeated strain is not as great as many would believe . . . Capt. Dit Clapper points out the fact that the boys feel they have to keep winning with Toronto right on their heels . . . after all first place means much, it gives the top team the privilege of selecting the site of the first two, the fifth and seventh games in the first playoff series

GODOY LOSES THIRD SHOT AT LOUIS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Arturo Godoy, who failed twice to bump Joe Louis off his heavyweight throne, lost his chance at a third try today—at least for the time being.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, who several months ago signed the Chilean to fight Louis again on April 15, set March 10 as the deadline for Arturo's arrival in this country.

But Godoy left Santiago by car for Buenos Aires today, explaining he had a movie to make with his wife Leda and therefore would prefer to fight Louis in August, and Jacobs promptly called off the Louis-Godoy plans.

WEILL IN TEARS

Instead, Matchmaker Nat Rogers disclosed Mike was negotiating with Bob Pastor, who also has fought Louis twice, to fill the April date. And Al Weill, Godoy's manager, after sending Arturo a frantic cable, sat in a corner moaning as the title shot flew out the window.

Jacobs also indicated he might decide to call off a Los Angeles fistic venture entirely, even if Pastor or some other opponent is willing to take on the Bomber in April.

A large part of the reason for the Godoy-Louis match was that the promoters—Jacobs and Tom Gallery—felt that the Spanish-speaking population of Southern California would turn out to make the affair a distinct financial success.

With Godoy out of the picture, Jacobs recalled that Louis' last California outing, against Jack Roper in April, 1939, outdoors, drew only $87,000.

PASTOR MAY GET SHOT

Mike feels he could do as well in the East without the cross-country expense. Thus, as he toyed with a suggestion to put on a title fight, with Pastor or some other opponent, in the auditorium in Atlantic City on April 12—the Saturday night just preceding Easter Sunday—when the shore resort ordinarily is thronged with holiday visitors.

Snow Trains On Week-End

While reports from the skiing areas in New Hampshire are not particularly encouraging, the Boston & Maine Railroad will operate one-day "snow trains" both Saturday and Sunday this week-end, it was announced this morning.

The holiday "snow train" on Saturday will go to Plymouth and Laconia, N. H., leaving Boston at 8:15 a. m., making stops at West Medford at 8:25, Winchester 8:30 and Lowell 8:50 a. m.

The Sunday "snow train will go to North Conway and Intervale, leaving Boston at 8 a. m. and Reading at 8:13 a. m.

This morning's reports from Laconia show nine inches of snow, with unbreakable crust, and from Plymouth eight inches of snow, with a breakable crust. From North Conway, the report shows fair skiing with eight inches of frozen granular snow.

Medwick's Reformation Key To Pennant Aims of Dodgers

HAVANA, Feb. 20 (AP)—The change that has come over Joe Medwick in 12 months is one of the most interesting and significant features of the Brooklyn Dodgers training camp.

It is something to be pointed out and marveled at, like the artillery-scarred hotel in which the team is quartered and the city's "legion of death" bus drivers, many of whom still are living after years of careening through the capital's winding streets.

Medwick, for one of the few times in his slugging career, neither is holding out for more money or sulking over his salary. Instead of offering to punch photographers as he was just a year ago, he is whooping it up and grinning all over Tropical Stadium for two hot hours every day and whipping himself into condition.

RECOVERED FROM 'BEANING'

Medwick is happy and contented, and that is going to be powerfully important to the Dodgers in their drive to overcome Cincinnati in the National League. He was a great hitter even when he was dissatisfied at St. Louis, and if he can come back to thump the ball at about .330 in the clean-up spot for the Dodgers they will be very tough. In fact, the club's chances depend primarily on his doing just that.

Joe says he has recovered completely from that terrible beaning he suffered last season, and he looks it. His eyes are clear and sharp and he is meeting the ball squarely in batting practice. He shows no symptoms of shyness at the plate, even though some of the Brooklyn pitchers already are cutting loose with more speed than control.

GOLF NUT

To show how serious he feels about coming back and repaying Pres. Larry MacPhail with a pennant, Joe has consented to give up golf completely until the end of the campaign. That means something to Medwick, for he is a golf nut and has been known to get in 36 holes on a day when his club was playing a night game. He is the only player whom Manager Leo Durocher has asked to store his sticks for the duration.

Perhaps Medwick's example has helped to make the Dodgers one of the most cheerfully confident outfits in my experience. They're not silently and dignifiedly cocksure like the Yankees were in their last great streak, but from Durocher on down they'll tell you they're a good team and explain why they should beat the Reds.

For instance, Van Lingle Mungo, who has been virtually a pitching cripple since 1937, appears to be back with a good arm again and is talking about winning 25 games. He is throwing hard, with a smooth follow-through that has Durocher more than faintly hopeful.

REDS WILL MISS MYERS

"All I need to do is hold the other side to five runs a game and I can't miss," Mungo declared.

"We've got a bunch now that can hit. I'll bet even money right now that they knock Paul Derringer off the hill the first game he faces us."

"I think Cincinnati is going to miss Billy Myers at shortstop more than they think," said Camilli. "Eddie Joost did all right in the World Series, but he looks a little frail to play a whole season."

"Another thing," offered Lavagetto, "those fellows have gone through two full years without a serious injury to a regular, except right before the series when they already had the flag won. Everything has happened to us. It's due to be about their turn."

YALE THROWS SCARE INTO GREEN FIVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Dartmouth Indians apparently are still jittery from their setback by Cornell in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League.

Dartmouth managed to hang onto its share of the top of the league by beating Yale last night, but the 51-50 score against the circuit's cellar occupants was anything but impressive performance that has won the team's three consecutive games.

The Elis even had a four-point lead at half time, but the Indians forged in front in the second half and finally won on a foul throw by Capt. Gus Broberg in the last minute of play. Broberg, the leading scorer of the league for the last two years, was held to 10 points and four other players supported him. Nevertheless he moved into the league lead again, because he was only a single point behind Jim Bennett of Cornell, who was idle last night.

The only other league member in action was Pennsylvania, which dropped a 43-31 decision to Navy.

Penn State avenged a previous defeat by Georgetown with a 45-38 conquest of the Hoyas in the principal skirmish among the Independents. Duquesne dumped Waynesburg 38-29, Army battered West Virginia 44-37, Syracuse whipped Niagara 44-35, and George Washington continued to make things miserable for its future Southern Conference brethren by belting Virginia 44-33.

New York U featured a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden with a 41-35 verdict over Fordham and St. John's stopped St. Joseph's 45-37.

Villanova, a strong Eastern representative, was downed 38-32 by Loyola of Chicago, but the section's prestige was upheld as Long Island edged out Michigan State 34-33 and Westminster squeezed past Youngstown 49-48.

GUS DORAZIO DENIES CHARGE OF 'DIVING'

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP)—Gus Dorazio—who should know—says: "I didn't quit or take a dive" in his fight with Joe Louis.

Furthermore, the Philadelphia heavyweight believes there are "apparently some punch drunk senators as well as punch drunk fighters."

Gus, who was knocked out by the Brown Bomber in the second round of their heavyweight title bout last Monday night at Philadelphia, unimpressed his ringmates last night and an irked Pennsylvania State Sen. John J. Haluska's charge that he "took a dive."

"I thought I was winning the fight until they told me in the dressing room that I had been knocked out," said Gus who attended a local fight.

"When I came back to my corner after the first round I told Jimmy Wilson, my trainer, that the fight was going easier than I thought."

Then came the fatal stanza.

"I saw Louis' chin in front of me big as a house and I swung for it," Gus recalled. "That's all I remember."

But the 17,902 spectators—Haluska among them—remember Louis must have seen Gus' chin quite plainly, too, because a right cross to the button ended Dorazio's challenge.

Haluska had asserted he spent 10 years in the ring himself and "when I speak of dives I know what I'm talking about."

Blocking Helps as in Football

AN EARLY FOOTBALL training is helpful for one who wishes to become a star in golf-croquet. One knocks an opponent's ball out of position when possible, gets in the other fellow's way and does everything one can to make life disagreeable for the opposition. While you are doing all this, you may be fortunate to have a partner who can take advantage of the perfect blocking.

Frank Leahy used to say that the reason his Boston College football team did so well was because it gave the ball carrier perfect blocking. A carefree blocker can also do effective work at golf-croquet.

They have a book of etiquette in connection with golf-croquet. No coaching is permitted from the sidelines. In fact spectators are not even allowed to whisper at the players. They tell me that married men often take their wives to golf-croquet courts just to put the silencer on them.

Freddy Corcoran tried out using a band while crack golfers were putting. Freddy's experiment showed that the music, which Freddy refused to classify as noise, did not cause any of the golfers to miss their putts.

Croquet-golfers still believe that silence is golden, and you can hear a butterfly light on a four-leaf clover as one of the contestants whacks in the winning goal.

The drinks are on the losing team which may be one of the minor reasons why golf-croquet has caught on in such a large way. After all when yachtsmen don't go yachting, they have to do something to pass away a day, and you cannot expect them to keep hitting balls through wickets all the time.

Between games, Ralph C. Frood, a great admirer of John Kieran, runs an "Information Please" program. He also arranges music and dance programs. Social life around Florida yacht clubs has reached a point where even if a member has a yacht he has not any time to sail on it.

Torger Tokle Tells Ski-Jumping Secrets

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—Just two years ago he was a thin little unknown. Today, Torger Tokle stands alone as the greatest ski jumper in the United States, and, what with all that is happening in Europe, he can be called best in the world.

He has won 23 jumps out of 27 in which he competed since landing in America on Saturday, Jan. 21, 1939. He broke a record the first time he jumped, which was the next day at Bear Mountain, and has broken records in his last two meets.

He's getting better all the time, and it may safely be stated here that he'll be even greater before age takes its toll, because he won't be 22 years old until March 7.

ADVICE TO NOVICE

Think of a ski-jump and Torger Tokle pops immediately into your mind. The two have become synonymous.

What would this young man who flies through the air without wings have to say for the masses who are novice skiers? He becomes quite voluble.

"First," said Tokle, "I say to the novice skier, go to a place where there is plenty of snow. The more snow the less chance to get hurt. Then start on small hills. Ski on them untill you have good control over your movements. Not until then do you try the bigger hills and longer trails.

"It isn't necessary to take ski lessons, but they help. I mean, you learn faster if you take lessons."

"Also, the better equipment you have, the faster you can learn how to ski well. Boots are the most important. The better the boots are the tighter your feet are held in them so you can ski firmly."

CAME HERE TO WORK

Did Tokle come to America to ski?

"I came here to work," said Tokle, blond as the Norsemen of famous sagas, but otherwise a surprisingly little fellow only 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighing scarcely 130 pounds. "I am a carpenter's helper.

"Of course," added Tokle, in quite good English, especially for a person in this country only two years, "I have been skiing since I was three years old. I began competing in jumps when I was nine.

"So, when I landed in America, on the Bergensfjord, I naturally asked about skiing. I learned there was to be a meet at Bear Mountain the next day. I went up Sunday morning."

MODEST ABILITY

Modesty compelled Tokle to stop there. But the rest of the story is well known. He came unheralded, and since no one had ever heard about him, he was placed in Class B.

Americans did not know that Tokle Americans did not know that Tokle had jumped a record 204 feet in Norway and he was too modest to tell them.

Tokle made a record of 171 feet, beating even the performances of Class A skiers.

That record stood until last Wednesday, when Tokle leaped 180 feet at Bear Mountain. He jumped 273 feet a week ago, at Leavenworth, Wash., for a new American record.

Believe it or not, the 180 jump is considered better, because the takeoff at Bear Mountain is so much shorter.

PRINCETON RUNNERS WIN POLAR MEET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Princeton indoor track team swept to its third straight victory in the annual triangular Polar Bear meet on Columbia's South Field, winning five individual events and both relays. The Tigers scored 52 points, Penn 43 and Columbia 20.

Two meet records fell before the flying feet of the Tiger and Quaker runners.

Dick Belyea of Penn negotiated the 1000-yard distance in 2:18.6, bettering the old mark of 2:22.3 set in 1939 by Princeton's Weymouth Kirkland. The other new mark was set by Nassau's Don Selbie, who won the "600" easily in 1:14.2, bettering the 1937 mark set by Bob Thum of Princeton by six-tenths of a second.

Penn's Ed Beetem, favored to walk away with the 35-pound weight throw, had to be content with a third.

Olympics Play Host To Badman Sextet

The roughest club in the Eastern League Bert Caubeau's Atlantic City Sea Gulls, will help the Olympics inaugurate club hockey at the Arena on tomorrow and Saturday evenings.

The Gulls have been the stormy petrel of Tommie Lockhart's loop ever since Corbeau assumed control of the club. Every big blow-up of the season has centered around the Resort City six.

Latest affair took place in the ole Atlantic City Auditorium, where the Gulls and Orioles tangled last Saturday night. No less than 22 penalties were handed out that evening, four of which were of the major variety.

Harry Dick, leading badman of the circuit, has served a total of 129 minutes in the sin bin this year, while Leo Richard has sat out some 98 minutes.

A recent addition to the squad, Nels Dixon, has shown enough spirit during his short time in Sea Gull uniform to eliminate him from the Lady Bing class.

Corbeau will unveil two new wingers for the Boston fans. They are Jimmy Russell and Dune Galbraith, both of whom hail from Port Colburne, Ont. They worked against Boston in Atlantic City two weeks ago and displayed brilliant form.

N. U. Track Team Takes on Brown

Northeastern's varsity track team which has an excellent chance of going through the season undefeated, will face a real test at Providence on Saturday when it meets Brown. Last year the Huskies scored a 38-36 victory over the Bears.

Ed MacFarland of Winthrop, who previously has concentrated on the dash and hurdles, probably will make his first start at 300 yards. His time trials this week have been excellent and Coach Jerry Tatton expects him to be a dependable point winner for the rest of the season.

The Huskies invasion will be built around the Carroll twins, Bob and Bill, of Belmont. They will run the 600, 1000 and mile, but their specific assignments have not yet been determined. The boys will be tuning up for the intercollegiate meet next week in New York.

Fran Corcoran heads the dash entries, while Dick Powers and Cher Bush will help Ed MacFarland in the hurdles. Mike Probodsky, in the two-mile, is also another probable point scorer.

Capt. Jake Wiren, who will compete in at least three events, heads the weight men; Charlie Knowles of Roxbury heads the shot put, and Ralph Riley and Joe Lavin and Jack Martin are the high jump standouts.

Report Galan's Knee O.K.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20 (INS)—Augie Galan, the Chicago Cubs outfielder whose 1940 activities were seriously curtailed by a knee fracture, reported happily today that his injury has been overcome and that he's looking forward to plenty of competition this year.

Galan put the knee to a test in an actual ball game and said that except for a little muscular soreness, which might be expected from his first real workout, there were no ill effects.

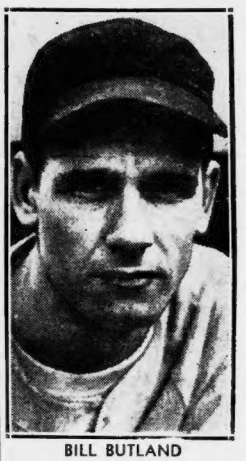
DR. TOMMY SAYS BILL'S ARM'S O. K.

Sox Path Rosier If Butland Clicks

By HERB FINNEGAN

THE HAPPIEST young man in Boston today is a native of Terre Haute, Indiana.

His name is Bill Butland, and he's a pitcher for the Red Sox—or hopes to be.



BILL BUTLAND

Butland reported to the Sox camp at Sarasota last spring. He was a most promising prospect. Six feet, five, with a side winder pitch which started from third base, he looked like a cinch to make the grade. He had won 19 games at Minneapolis in '39 to prove he had what it takes.

But something went wrong, as many things do in the spring, and Bill wound up with a sore arm.

The trouble started over in Clearwater, as the Sox were playing the Dodgers. The long shoulder muscle of his salary whip hurt, especially when he threw a curve ball. The Sox kept him on the bench all spring. He didn't appear in a game.

When the warm weather arrived they did start him against the A's. He won the game in a walk, but the shoulder trouble recurred, and he was shipped to Scranton with Mickey Harris.

Now Scranton is a step below Minneapolis in classification, and if he had won 19 games with a Double-A club the year before, certainly he should have burned up that A loop.

He didn't, however. He started two games and didn't finish either. He relieved in another, and still no luck.

Scranton sent him up to Dr. Tommy Richards in August. The Sox physician warned him to give his arm a complete rest. He pitched no more, nor did he exercise the arm during the winter.

Fishing and Hunting and Wondering

BILL SPENT the winter fishing and hunting and wondering, no doubt doing more wondering than hunting or fishing.

Then the summons to appear again before Dr. Richards. If his arm was okay, he'd go South, if it wasn't, it was the sticks.

He was a dejected looking kid as he ducked his uncovered head under the Fenway Park transoms. It was noon. His appointment with Dr. Richards was at 2. Two hours to go.

Tom Kenney tried to cheer him up. They played a little two-hand solitaire. It was no use. Not a peep out of him.

Came 1:50 p. m., and off the kid trudged the long last mile to Dr. Richards' office. It was like a one-man funeral march.

Came 2:45 p. m., and Butland returned to the Park.

It was a smiling, high-stepping, voluble Butland. Nothing like the glum youth who had left the offices an hour before.

"The arm's perfect," he shouted. "Dr. Richards said it had healed just the way he hoped. Told me to take it easy for the first few weeks down south, and the arm would be as good as ever."

He would have danced a jig except that his head would have gone through the tap room ceiling.

It was great to be alive.

Tommy Daly and Pee-Wee Reese

TOMMY DALY used to say last spring as he watched Butland in action:

"That's the way I like to see pitchers come up. Thin through the chest. Plenty of room for development there. He's fast now, and when he gets a little thicker through the chest, his speed will be blinding.

"Those bull-necked pitchers (Jack Wilson, Tom?) never improve after a certain age. When they start to put on weight around the chest and shoulders, it interferes with their speed. Their only hope is reducing enough to keep their weight down. Give me those thin-chested kids every time.

Tom was not the only one who thought highly of Butland. When Herb Hash was having his sensational winning streak last June, Pee-Wee Reese used to ask:

"What's happened to Butland? I figured he'd be a much more consistent winner than Hash"

Pee-Wee was with Louisville in '39 when Hash and Butland were the aces for Minneapolis.

Yes, the kid has all kinds of promise. He has a sneaky delivery which finds the ball on top of the hitter before it seems to leave his hand. He's only 22. He's poison to right-handed hitters. If he escapes ill-fortune this year, all will not be thorns in the Red Sox path.

Galehouse Signs Brown Cntract

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Browns today announced the signing of three more players and said they would take Frank Grube, former Giant and White Sox catcher, to training camp as a free agent.

The three men who signed were Pitchers Denny Galehouse, purchased from the Red Sox; Emil Bildilli and Outfielder Chet Laabs.

BROWN NIPS AMHERST

AMHERST, Feb. 20 (AP)—Brown withstood a determined second half rally last night to subject the Amherst basketball team to its fifth consecutive defeat 34-31.

Tad Wieman, Princeton coach, is touring the corn belt knife and fork league . . . Billy Jurges still has to turn the right side of his head to get the most out of a radio program. However, he suffered no dizzy spells after working out in the Miami sun and that's something . . . Sam Watters, secretary of the Pirates, can count 400 tickets a minute . . . Bill Skiff, new manager of the Seattle Coast Leaguers, is getting a terrific buildup in the papers out there . . . Note to Jimmy Armstrong, Birmingham: Al Schacht's book comes out this week and the publishers are A. S. Barnes and Co., New York.

Borican Perils 1000 Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (INS)—In view of the performances of Leslie MacMitchell and Greg Rice, nobody is blowing any trumpets today for big John Borican.

However, Big John will be seen in the national championships at the Garden this Saturday and he may well better the record for 1000 yards.

Borican smashed one of the truly great marks for the Garden track when he raced the half-mile in 1:52.6 at the New York A. C. games

He bettered the time of 1:52.8, established by Russell Chapman and duplicated by John Woodruff.

The powerful Borican will strive to clip the standard of 2:12.6, set by Dr. Paul Martin, of Switzerland, in 1930.

To do that he will have to defeat such men as Gene Venzke and Jim Kehoe, of Maryland. Borican, Venzke and Kehoe have been seeded for the 1000, which has drawn a large field.

Springfield Fetes Rabbit Maranville

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 20 (AP)—Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, who started his illustrious baseball career on the Springfield sandlots, was feted by 650 of his admirers last night when he returned to his native city to assume the managership of its Eastern League team.

Among those who lauded the beloved little shortstop were Johnny Evers, his teammate on the 1914 championship Boston Braves, and such Eastern League personages as Pres. Tommy Richardson, Jack Onslow, manager of the Hartford Club, and Phil Page, manager of the Binghamton Club.

ROOKIE BREAKS LEG

Injury Jinx Hits Giant Standouts

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20 (INS)—A rash of injuries overtook some of the leading New York Giants in training camp today.

Pitcher Bill Lohrman was being treated for an injured left elbow; Walter Brown was down with a sprained ankle and Bump Hadley was struggling with a stiff neck.
